

Glad Tidings for Families of POWs

Letters From North Vietnam

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cards or letters from 131 American prisoners of war in North Vietnam have brought tears of joy in homes around the nation. Some families learned for the first time that their men were alive and well.

The four children of Maj. Donald Odell had gone out Christmas caroling in Mount Clemens, Mich., Tuesday but quit because of the bitter cold. Then came word that their father, missing for 26 months, was reported alive and well.

"After those kids got the news, there was no stopping them," said their jubilant mother, Mrs. Shirley Odell. "They're back in the cold, telling the neighbors their dad's all right, singing their hearts out up and down the block."

Fate Unknown
It had been 18 months since Air Force 2nd Lt. Michael T. Burns, 25, was shot down over North Vietnam, and his parents in Warsaw, Ind., knew nothing except that he had been seen landing safely.

Then his name appeared on the list made public Tuesday by two women leaders of the anti-war movements just back from North Vietnam.

"I couldn't think of anything we'd like better than this," said his father, John B. Burns. "This is the time of year for things like this to happen."

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said all but four of the names had appeared on previous lists of prisoners. He declined to say which four names were new, or reveal the names of five men that North Vietnam reported are dead.

Many of the families on the list said they had not heard from their men previously or had not had word in months.

Tears of Joy
Mrs. Gwen Schweitzer of Lemore, Calif., wept with relief when she received a crude card from her husband, Navy Cmdr. Robert Schweitzer, 37, who was shot down two years ago with no word since.

The card addressed to her and two small sons read: "Dear Gwen, Eric and Carl, Merry Christmas and Happy New Year and Happy Tet. This lovely card is an example of the kindness of the Vietnamese people. May God bless and keep you and grant us all peace in the New Year."

Most of the letters were mailed by the two women anti-war leaders when they returned from North Vietnam Sunday night. They told a news conference in San Francisco that the North Vietnamese wanted the letters mailed in the United States "to ensure their delivery for Christmas."

Women Invited
Cora Weiss of New York, a national coordinator of Women Strike for Peace, and Madeline Duckles of Berkeley Calif., West Coast head of the Committee of Responsibility, said they were invited to North Vietnam by the Vietnam Women's Union.

The women said they were permitted to interview three captured pilots—Mark Gartley of Greenville, Maine; Paul Bordon Brown of Newton, Mass.; and William J. Mayhew of New Manchester, W. Va.

Over a traditional Vietnamese repast of beer, tea and tangerines, at a private building in Hanoi used by the military, Mrs. Weiss said, "We had a very good and very pleasant time together. The men drank beer very happily."

During their conversation the pilots "spoke very highly of the antiwar movement... and very militantly against the war," she said.

Detention Camp
The women also visited a detention camp in Hanoi that they said was clean and where the

No Progress In Getting Gifts To Captives

Perot Negotiating With Representatives Of Hanoi Regime

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Representatives for Texas billionaire T. Ross Perot met today with a North Vietnamese official but reported no progress in getting permission to fly two planes to Hanoi to deliver Christmas gifts to an estimated 1,400 U.S. prisoners.

Tom Meurer, Perot's representative, said he met the Vietnamese official at the North Vietnamese embassy. Meurer was accompanied by two of Perot's other representatives and a member of the Red Cross.

Meurer said he expects Perot, who arrived in Bangkok Tuesday, to fly to Vientiane and attempt personally to get permission.

Perot, who arrived in Bangkok Tuesday, flew in one of his chartered jetties to Vientiane today to appeal personally to the North Vietnamese. He told newsmen in Bangkok the fact that his representatives were able to speak to the North Vietnamese at all was "an encouraging sign."

Perot, who built a fortune on computers in the last two years, said the pattern of his efforts to gain admission from the Hanoi regime was similar to business dealings.

"These things always move slowly in the beginning," he said. "We expect initial failures, setbacks and discouragement. But I'm very patient. I'm prepared to wait a long time. We have no deadline. You might compare our mission to a man going fishing. At this stage we've just put our line out. Now we have to wait."

The North Vietnamese earlier told Perot to send the gifts to Moscow for delivery through normal postal channels.

Meanwhile, two wives of U.S. fliers captured in the Vietnam war left Vientiane for Bangkok after spending three days trying to obtain information about their husbands from North Vietnamese and other officials.

Reopen Jan. 19 Congressional Session Long But Uniquely Unproductive

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The first session of the 91st Congress has ended after one of the longest but least productive legislative efforts in recent times.

The Democratic-controlled Congress gave President Nixon only a handful of the major proposals he sent to the Capitol during his first year in office.

Action on about 25 of his most important recommendations was left over for what promises to be a jam-packed 1970 session opening on Jan. 19.

Democratic leaders insisted, however, that one key measure, the massive tax and Social Security bill, was enough to make the 1969 session one to remember.

Housing Bill
The lawmakers also cleared a major $4.8 billion housing bill, the most stringent coal mine safety measure ever passed, a draft law revision which permitted Nixon to institute a lottery system, and extensions of the surtax which the administration sought to fight inflation.

Senators easily confirmed Nixon's choice of Judge Warren E. Burger as Chief Justice of the United States, then handed the President a stiff rebuff by rejecting his nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. for a second opening on the Supreme Court Nixon indicated he will send a new nomination to the Senate early in 1970.

Not acted on were the President's proposals to deal with problems of crime, spreading drug use, reform of the welfare system, revenue-sharing with the states and cities, reorganization of the postal system, mass transit subsidies, new foreign trade policies, and many others.

Good Wishes
But the legislators, who barely finished Tuesday in time to make it home by Christmas Eve, left with the President's good wishes.

Nixon went to the Capitol for lunch with congressional leaders in a last-minute goodwill gesture.

But the general good feeling did not prevent House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan from calling the 1969 session a "do-little, sick-in-the-mud assembly."

There undoubtedly will be political arguments in next year's congressional elections and perhaps in the 1972 national elections as to responsibility for the record of the 1969 Congress.

Veto Threats
Nixon issued a rash of veto threats in the closing days of the session, souring relations between the White House and Democrats on Capitol Hill.

Conferees on the tax bill made changes to meet some of Nixon's objections to that measure, and Republican leaders later said they were sure he would sign it.

They voiced the same opinion on the mine safety legislation, even though the President assailed the cost of one provision.

Nixon also announced he would veto the $19.7 billion money bill for the Health, Education and Welfare and the Labor Departments. This contained $1 billion more for education than he asked.

Override Veto
However, Democratic leaders decided to wait until Congress returns to send this to him, so they can try to override the veto.

Another veto threat on a catch-all final appropriations measure was effective. It led the Senate to reverse itself and kill a rider which would have blocked an administration plan to open more construction jobs to blacks.

By far the longest Senate debate of the year came on authorizations for military spending.

Defense Department critics lost the major effort to force a pause in development of the missile defense system. But they contended the protracted look at Pentagon programs did lay the basis for future cutbacks on military outlays.

Early in the session the Senate overwhelmingly ratified a major treaty—the nuclear non-proliferation pact.

No Paper
The Post-Crescent will not be published on Christmas Day to give employees a holiday.

The Greatest Gift of All
Santa's on His Way, at Last!

By HAL BOYLE
NORTH POLE (AP) — He's off!

Santa Claus is on his way at last!

The jolly old saint and his favorite reindeer are zooming through the arctic skies right now, heading for the American border. He'll reach it tonight.

The northern lights switched on to a clear, steady green the "go ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lanes in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good Luck!"

Sled Overflowing
And Santa needed that wide, clear road in the sky. For his big red sled was packed so full of gifts it overflowed. It looked like a hay rack zooming through the crisp air.

"Oh dear, oh dear," worried Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of these presents falls out and beams some poor innocent for this must be the heaviest load I've had in twenty years."

"What is it he is fretting about?" whispered Donder to Vixen. "He's only riding that sled. We have to pull it."

Vixen laughed so hard the bells on her harness tinkled in merry music. And all the other reindeer laughed, too.

As Santa climbed up into the seat of the sled, puffing a little because he has gained some weight this winter, three black and white penguins waddled across the snow in front of the reindeer.

"Here, here, get out of the way, please," said Santa Claus importantly. Then he said, surprised.

"Why, what are you penguins doing up at the North Pole anyway? You're supposed to be at the South Pole."

"We're on a vacation," said one of the penguins. "We're looking for Florida. Have you seen it anywhere?"

"Climb aboard, climb aboard," boomed Santa. "I'll drop you off there. But I must say this is the first time I ever picked up three hunchbacks wearing tuxedos."

Just then, Mrs. Santa Claus came running out waving a long piece of paper.

Gifts For All
"You almost forgot your list of good children," she said.

"Never mind," said Santa. "I don't need it. This year I am going to give a present to every little boy and girl, good or bad. The bad ones will feel sorry then, because they know they don't deserve a nice present. I'll make 'em try harder to be good next year."

"That isn't according to Hoyle," said Mrs. Claus, who likes to play bridge. "But it does make sense, you old sofie."

Santa stood up to crack his whip in the air—the signal to be off. But he heard a small voice crying.

"Wait, please wait."

Favorite Elf
It was Cluny, Santa's favorite little elf. The other elves gossiped about Cluny and said she was clumsy at making toys. But Santa knew it was only because she was so young. He liked her because she had a good heart.

"Here," said the tiny elf, holding up a small, shiny figure.

"What's this, what's this," rumbled Santa. "You're too late. My pack is already loaded."

"It is only my present to the world," said Cluny. "I made it at night in my room all by myself."

Santa took the little figure from her hands. It was a beautiful angel with butterfly wings and a robe of purest white. In her hand the angel held a small magic wand.

Angel of Peace
"It is the angel of peace," explained Cluny.

"Why, Cluny," said Santa, "this is better than all the other gifts put together. I'll see that your angel waves her wand for one day at least over every home in the land."

And he picked up Cluny and gave her a big whisker-licky kiss on her cheek. Then he picked up his long whip again and cracked it sharply in the frosty air.

"Ho, ho, ho, here we go!" he roared. "Ho, ho, ho, here we go!"

The eight reindeer leaped forward and the big sled began sliding through the snow. Faster, faster, faster, faster—and then they were off the ground and into the air.

Santa was on his way. And tonight, if you go to bed, he will come to your house, wherever you are.

Go-Togethers Get Together

By MARY WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

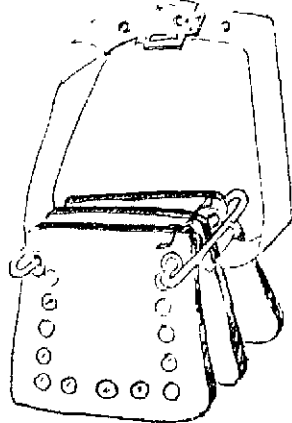

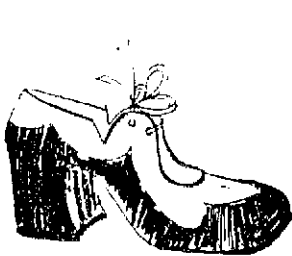

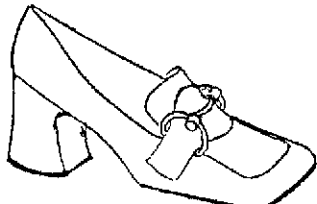

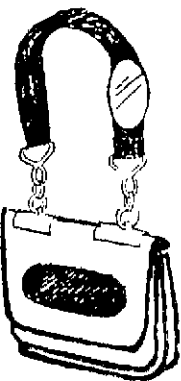

'Tis the season to take a breather now that the fanfare of fall and winter collections has subsided and designers and retailers are busy paving the way for spring.

Most women will welcome the time to contemplate the fashion scene, for the changes have been many, leaving confusion in their wake. Hemlines have never been so fickle, nor moods so varied as they skip merrily through the Twenties, Thirties and Forties up to the year 2000, where futuristic fashions provide stark contrast side by side with shades of Isadora Duncan and the spirit of Art Deco.

Equally challenging in their own perplexing way are accessories. Once merely functional, they now hold their own as creative exercises in design, color and form for their creators and the consumer. Witness the footwear and handbags by Latinas on this page. Each reflects the mood of the apparel and together they represent the myriad of looks and lengths predicted to take the Seventies by storm.

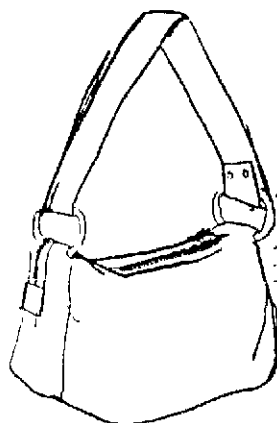

This year's status look, the long tunic over pants, is interpreted by Jacques Tiffeau in eye-catching stripes and solids. Providing the final touch are ornamented high-heel pumps and a triple-layered, velvet-edged kidskin shoulder bag.

Art Deco, fashion's latest decorative find, is the source of inspiration for these two-tone granny lace shoes made to go with the three-piece vest suit by Victor Joris for Cuddlecoat. Three separate envelopes are hinged together into a matching shoulder bag.

The fashion sleuth who enjoys venturing out in cloak and Fedora will find high suede boots and a big crushed patent leather pouch the perfect accessories. Cuffed and scroll-stitched in the tradition of the romantic nineteenth century, the boots confirm the feminine look of mystery. Cloak and hat ore by Mazza and Van Helsdingen for Pranx.

House Can be Headache for 'Wall-Knockers'

Are you a "wall-knocker"? That's the term many real estate people apply to prospective home buyers who, ignorant of what they should really be looking for, thump the walls of a house curiously, hoping to hear some clue.

Like "fire-kickers" among used car salesmen, and "leathersniffers" in a whole variety of fields, "wall knockers" rarely get as much value as they might. They shop for a home on Saturday, but forget to find out whether that quiet, shady lane is a truck route on weekdays.

They admire a pretty lawn in summer, but forget to ask about the presence of insulation so necessary for winter.

They do their hunting on dry, blue-sky days — and fail to look for high-water marks on basement walls.

Love Is Blind

"Buying a home is like proposing marriage," says housing expert, J. V. Cannon, Jr., boss of a fixture manufacturing firm. "If you're not careful, a slick coat of paint may dazzle you out of looking for honest structural soundness. Some people forget all about the attic. A few even overlook the bathroom fixtures!"

Lists are an invaluable house-hunting aid. Before you shop write down all the features your new house and neighborhood must have; then list those you'd like to find if you can.

While looking at houses, have one member of the family jot down the good and bad points of each house you see. This way, you are less likely to request a second look at a house that left you cold first time around.

These are sometimes so obvious that no one thinks to check them, yet a house that lacks these features can be a king sized headache for years to come.

1. Exterior. Is the siding solid, the roofing tight and flat? Paint free of peels, blisters and "alligatoring"? (A negative answer might mean a leak in the rain drainage system.)

Rain gutters and spouts should lead to dry wells (underground beds of rock and gravel for dispersion) at least 15 feet from the house. You can test the downspout by inserting a hose and running water down it for five minutes; none should back up.

2. Construction. Check basement walls for severe cracks, bulges, dampness, signs of flooding, a musty smell. Can it be aired out? If basement beams are free of rot, termites and carpenter ants, you should see no traces of "sawdust" and you should be unable to push a penknife blade deeply and easily into the wood.

Watch out for long, deep plaster cracks around door and window frames, and for rain leakage stains on upstairs ceilings and walls. Floors should be firm and level; you can test them with a n inexpensive bubble-type tester sold in most hardware stores.

3. Bathrooms. Any house should have at least two toilets (unless you are a hermit) and it is becoming standard to have at least one bathroom on each level of a house. If you need an extra bath, be sure that the price you pay will leave you enough to put one in promptly, and don't complain if you have to do this; with the cost of labor and fixtures forever going up, the value of an investment in a new bathroom keeps escalating.

4. Heating equipment Is it suitable to the size of the house? Many newer homes have two and even three zone heating, giving you the opportunity to have different levels of heat in different parts of the house, and giving you the economy that accompanies this option.

5. Wiring. Are there enough electrical outlets and circuits for the size of the house? Insist on a written guarantee that the house has at least a 60 amp electrical service (100 or even 200 amps are better).

If the home is to be built, or if you're planning structural changes, call the telephone company for free advice on wiring; by running the wires behind walls, you'll avoid excessive exposed wiring.

6. Yard. Large enough and private enough for your family's needs? Will the summer privacy provided by trees disappear with autumn's falling leaves? Shrubbery that's right up against an old house may harbor dangerous dampness or carpenter ants; check.

7. You. This should really be the first thing to check for it will help in deciding on what to try for in evaluating and selecting the house you need. Do you know how much cash you can actually put together? Have you figured out how much, in monthly payments, you can afford? The lawyer — have you chosen one (picking one before you go out may save you from signing something that binds you but not the other party?)

But remember, no matter how ready you are to begin that the proper first step is to scan the paper for the names of real estate brokers, not buying a house may be like proposing marriage, as Eljer's Plumbing ware's Mr. Cannon has suggested, it's wise to get some expert advice from a professional before crossing the threshold

A Taste of Giving

Christmas Shop Is 'For Kids Only'

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

You can get your mother a psychedelic feather duster or a box of colored bath oil beads that look like "peerie" marbles.

For Dad they have tools and if he's playful, "Hot Wheels" toy racers.

They also have reading glasses for Grandma and plastic canes filled with candy for Grandpa. You can find stuff for your brother or sister, too, and for the Christmas party at school.

And it's hard to tell who has more fun picking things out — the customers or the clerks.

The sign over the door says "For Children Only." It's not an absolute ban to grownups, but the low-slung doorway keeps the older shoppers to a minimum.

The H. C. Prange Co. has operated the shop in its downtown Appleton department store for several years.

Low Counters

It's a small, temporary room, maybe 15 by 20 feet. Counters are extra-low for the shortest shopper. Clerks are careful with their elbows, which are about nose-high on most customers, and at the peak of the Christmas rush there have been as many as 50 small people milling about the room at once.

Up the escalator a flight or two reigns Santa, his knees by now worn thin from the press of pleading pilgrims.

Down here is the other side of a child's Christmas. Giving is spoken here.

Nancy Rickert, a Xavier High School junior, and Anne Brannen, a senior at Appleton West, have worked in the shop since it opened the day after Thanksgiving.

Their customers generally range up to about age 13. Sometimes mothers come along, but most kids come in alone.

"They usually have a dollar for each gift," said one of the clerks, and they normally have under $5 to spend. "We've had them with up to $30, though," said Anne.

"Their money is usually so warm," said Nancy. Anne laughed. "And wet, too."

First Shopping

For many of them, it is the first experience shopping. That experience is one reason some parents send them in.

"It's also a good sitter service," said Nancy. There has only been one case of a "lost mother" who took too long to claim her offspring and had to be paged, however.

Styles of shopping vary widely. There was the little boy who marched in, scarcely paused to make choices as he scooped up an armful of items off one counter and brought them to the cash register. "I want these," he announced.

Most take longer, and the clerks give personal attention. They find out how large the child's budget is and for whom the gifts are being bought. The clerks give them small envelopes to hold their money while they shop, with a checklist on the back.

For shy shoppers, Nancy said,

Selective Service Chief?

Tarr Denies White House Offer

Curtis W. Tarr, former Lawrence University president, this morning denied that he had been asked to become director of the Selective Service.

Driver in Fatal Crash Enters Innocent Plea

A 38-year-old rural Appleton man whose truck was involved in a fatal accident Oct. 16, Tuesday afternoon pleaded innocent to a charge of homicide by intoxicated use of a vehicle.

Thomas Buelow, route 3, entered the plea in Circuit Court. Although Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell did not set a date for trial, indications are it will be late in January.

Buelow's attorney said it would take him at least 30 days to prepare for trial. He said he also plans to file pretrial motions. Buelow remains free on a $1,500 signature bond. He was bound over to Circuit Court last week after a preliminary hearing in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

He was charged after his truck collided with a car driven by Karen Lom, 16, route 3, on N. Meade Street near County Trunk S Miss Lom was killed in the crash.

He said that a White House official had conversed with him about a month ago in connection with the job. But he indicated surprise and concern about published reports that an actual offer had been made to him.

Tarr, an assistant secretary of the Air Force, indicated a reluctance to take the job as successor to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey. "I personally would be disappointed to leave my present job," he said.

A story in today's Milwaukee Sentinel said unnamed sources had disclosed the job offer to Tarr. The Sentinel story also said that another former Wisconsin man, Roger T. Kelley, director of the Defense Department manpower program, is a candidate.

White House sources had no comment on the reports that the two men were being considered.

"I don't know whether I'm on the list of candidates or not," Tarr said today. He said White House aide Peter Flanagan, who talked with him for about an hour, was "more interested in what my future is in my present job, what I am doing now."

"When Flanagan left, he said 'Well, I'll see you,'" Tarr said. "Well, I'll see you," Tarr said he had heard nothing from Flanagan or anybody else about the job since.

"The White House doesn't offer you a job unless they are ready to accept you, and unless you are ready to accept the job," he added.

Tarr said that his present work in connection with Air Force management and reserves has little, if any, connection with the job in question, since the Air Force does not use the draft.

Better Qualified?

"I suppose this will get me in trouble with the White House," Tarr added lightly about the Sentinel's report. "I wonder what I should do now."

The Sentinel also said Tarr had suggested Kelley as better qualified to administer the draft. The story did not say to whom Tarr had suggested Kelley's name.

Tarr said today that the Sentinel reporter had suggested Kelley as a candidate, and that in half just Tarr had responded, "I would recommend him."

Hershey is due to leave his job Feb. 16. It pays about $38,000. Tarr's present job pays about $32,000.

Tarr became president of Lawrence in 1963. He left Lawrence in June to take the government post. During 1968 and early 1969 he had spent much of his time as chairman of a governor's task force studying local government organization and the distribution of state aids and shared taxes.

Tarr was active in the Republican party in his native California, where he ran unsuccessfully for Congress. In Wisconsin, Tarr's wife was a leading support of the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Drivers Get Free Coffee For Holidays

Area law enforcement agencies today urged holiday travelers to make a "coffee safety stop."

The coffee safety stop program is a nationwide effort by safety groups and thousands of restaurant operators who have volunteered to serve free coffee to travelers during peak traffic hours of the holiday season.

Participating restaurants, including several in the Fox River Valley, will display a special free coffee safety break signs.

Cooperating in the national accident prevention effort are the International Chiefs of Police Association, the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, the Coffee Information Service, the National Restaurant Association and the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association.

The free coffee break program will be in effect through Jan. 4.

Police said they feel coffee rest stops can help reduce the holiday traffic toll. The effectiveness of the rest break in offsetting driver fatigue is well known and has long been recommended as basic to safe driving, police explain.

Trustbusters Looking At Industrial Giants

By WILLIAM BARTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government trustbusters have initiated a study to determine what, if anything, should be done about the entrenched economic power of industrial giants.

Confirming this in an interview, Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren emphasized that officials are proceeding cautiously.

"After all, this is a very difficult and delicate situation," McLaren said. "If you're going to break up companies, you've got to consider the effect on the labor force, the national defense and other factors."

"It's just not something you rush into," he added.

Task Force

An antitrust task force named by former President Lyndon B. Johnson recommended an attack on oligopolies—market situations dominated by a few large entrenched firms—last year.

But McLaren, chief of the Justice Department's antitrust division, saw more of a threat in merger-minded conglomerate corporations that were rapidly swallowing up other companies.

He filed lawsuits challenging several huge combines, and the merger pace slowed. But he acknowledged other influences, including the stock market situation and threatened congressional action, affected the movement.

Anti-Competitive

Reviewing the government complaints against conglomerates, McLaren said none was challenged simply because it was a conglomerate-type merger. "We only attacked those we felt were anticompetitive under existing law," he said.

The anti-trust chief suggested this policy of attacking big company mergers and acquisitions of leading firms in a particular market "will result in deconcentration" of the nation's economic power.

For instance, he said, the rapidly growing conglomerates might be the answer to the oligopoly problem and forestall any necessity of government action.

Older Industries

"I can see some of these rough, tough companies getting into some of the older industries and really giving them competition," he said.

Reviewing antitrust activity during the past year, McLaren listed two major accomplishments: "We stopped the worst of the big, anticompetitive merger trend, and we also forced the business community to take a hard look at the whole business of reciprocity."

Reciprocity is the practice whereby a company favors its customers with purchases, and one of McLaren's biggest lawsuits challenged the U.S. Steel Corp. on that ground.

U.S. Steel, the nation's eighth largest firm, quickly settled the dispute, but McLaren said the antitrust division has made "only a start in the reciprocity area."

Still Important

"I still think it's important," he added.

McLaren, a Chicago lawyer who headed the American Bar Association's antitrust section prior to his appointment, aroused controversy from the start—both within the business community and within the administration.

He said he "deeply regrets" the release of a report prepared for President Nixon by an antitrust task force which recommended that no action be taken.

against conglomerate mergers. "What they (the task force) said has been widely misinterpreted," he said. "I don't think they meant to say we shouldn't attack conglomerate mergers that are anticompetitive."

Newspaper Operations

McLaren also was embarrassed when the Commerce Department, with Nixon's backing, endorsed a bill to give antitrust immunity to joint newspaper operations after he had testified against it.

But perhaps his strongest enemies were made in the securities business when he urged the Securities and Exchange Commission to push for more competition in stock exchange commission rates.

As a consequence, some influential New York stock brokers, who backed Nixon during the 1968 campaign, have started pressing for McLaren's ouster.

Except for becoming more defensive about his actions, McLaren shows no indication that his position has been affected by the drive.

New Year Plans

Already, he is pressing ahead with plans for the new year. Among his goals, he said, is enactment of bills to give the government the right to appeal when it loses a request for a preliminary injunction, as it did in the case of a merger between International Telephone & Telegraph and Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

McLaren said district courts "are very reluctant to approve requests for preliminary injunctions since the defendants don't get a trial."

Moreover, he suggested the change "may very well expedite the ultimate decision of those cases and keep them from stagnating along for years in the courts."

Arab Summit Collapses in Disunity

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Another attempt at Arab unity failed Tuesday night as the fifth Arab summit conference collapsed.

"It seems to me the conference has produced nothing at Yasser Arafat, the guerrilla chief," Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser told the Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram. "I believe the conference has not shouldered its responsibilities."

Funds for Guerrillas

Leaders of 14 Arab states and the Palestine guerrilla movement met for three days to plan a unified strategy against Israel, but broke up in disarray without making any decision. It was their biggest setback since Israel's victory in the 1967 war.

The only accomplishment reported was agreement to contribute at least $19 million to the Palestine Liberation Organization, the guerrilla movement.

But conference sources said the guerrilla chief, was promised this in private meetings on the fringe of the conference, not as part of the conference itself.

The presidents and kings ended the meeting without issuing a communique, the first time this has happened at an Arab summit.

King Hassan II of Morocco, the conference host, told a news conference that disagreement over whether to pursue a political settlement with Israel was "one of the reasons why we did not want to issue a communique." Other sources said no communique was issued because the leaders couldn't agree on any concrete action.

Increased Support

Nasser demanded men, weapons and more money from other Arab countries to help Egypt in its fight against Israel. He got nowhere. Saudi Arabia and Kuwait refused to increase the support they now give from their oil revenues, Algeria said it needed all its oil money for its own development, and Saudi Arabia's King Faisal threatened at one point to demand an accounting for the millions he has been paying Egypt since the 1967 war.

Libya and Iraq, the other Arab oil nations, also showed no signs of loosening their purse strings for any other governments.

One significant development was that Algerian President Houari Boumedienne lined up with the moderates instead of the "revolutionary camp" in which he was once one of the loudest talkers. He offered to deliver most of his Soviet weapons to the war front but advocated that the Palestine guerrillas carry most of the burden of the war against Israel.

Immediate Preparation

Nasser had warned that a political settlement was no longer possible and that the only solution was to plan for a new war.

Libya and Sudan called for immediate preparations for full-scale war against Israel, but Boumedienne ridiculed them with disparaging references to Libya's small army and the large numbers of officers jailed since the military coup Sept. 1.

Syria, Iraq and South Yemen stayed away from the final conference session, because of "doctrinal differences" with some of the other Arab governments. King Hassan said. The president of Yemen stayed away from three sessions following a heated exchange with King Faisal.

Little Progress

Mideast Peace Suggestions Produce Only Criticism

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's try for peace between Arabs and Israelis appears to have produced more criticism than progress.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers admitted as much in reciting main foreign affairs accomplishments and disappointments of the new administration since it took office 11 months ago. A Mideast solution has been high on Nixon priority list from the start.

Progress has been made on various negotiating fronts "with the single exception of the Middle East," Rogers told newsmen Tuesday.

Within hours came news of two further slaps at U.S. Mideast policy:

amid quarreling over efforts to step up war measures.

Now the Israelis are particularly upset by recent Washington peace proposals, calling them "appeasement of the Arabs."

Rogers denied the appeasement charge and defended the U.S. formula. In essence they call for a solution based on Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands conquered in the June 1967 war, and a binding commitment by the Arabs to honor Israel's frontiers.

In Washington's view, the potential for a big power war erupting from the Arab-Israeli conflict is so dangerous that it is in the U.S. national interest to search for a solution.

"Although we recognize that we can't be optimistic about the hopes for a negotiated settlement," Rogers said, "it seems to us that we have to do everything we can to move them forward and to see whether it is possible to work out a settlement in the interests of all parties concerned."

Chief U.N. delegates of the Big Four powers met in New York for 2½ hours Tuesday to discuss the Mideast situation and said they would meet again next Tuesday.

Isolation Impossible

U.S. Trying to Warm Relations With China

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States is "going to do whatever we can to establish friendly relations" with Communist China, Secretary of State William P. Rogers says.

but "we're not going to attempt to exploit the difference between the Soviet Union and the Communist China."

Rogers said Tuesday, "It's not possible to have a major policy shift quickly, because this has continued for some time. This administration feels that it's impossible for a nation of 800 million people, a place and I think in that sense most 25 per cent of the world's population, to be isolated. It doesn't make sense."

In an interview on CBS television, Rogers said President Nixon had promised congressional leaders that "we're not about to get involved in any other war or any other situation like Vietnam unless we have the full support of the Congress and the American people."

He continued, "I think our presence abroad has to be reduced. We're too large, too prominent. We have too many troops abroad. We're trying to do too many things in too many places and I think in that sense we have to reduce our commitments."

Howard Hughes Is Ordered to Pay Airline $137 Million Damages

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge has ordered multimillionaire Howard Hughes to pay $137,611,435 in damages to Trans World Airlines, which he once controlled.

U.S. Dist. Judge Charles M. Metzner upheld the damages award made Sept. 21, 1968 by former Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, who acted as special master in the case. Metzner's ruling is subject to appeal.

TWA management sued Hughes in 1961, contending he mismanaged the airline when he had a controlling interest. Hughes and his Hughes Tool Co. failed to show up for a pretrial deposition and Brownell was named to decide the amount of damages.

The TWA management claimed that Hughes failed to purchase sufficient jetliners to help the airline make the transition from piston aircraft.

Judge Metzner said the judgment, in effect, confirmed the charges. The award was based on triple damages under the antitrust laws.

Hughes sold his TWA stock in 1966 for $566 million.

Jesus Grew Up in Land of Violence

(This is the sixth and last installment of a Christmas series examining the secular conditions surrounding the advent of Christ as portrayed through the life of Herod the Great.)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Roman crosses lined the roads of Galilee and Judea—2,000 of them—on which Jewish patriots writhed in agony and died. It was a harrowing but common sight during the boyhood of Jesus.

From the start, he lived in the midst of violence, struggle and peril. Yet he grew up with an undaunted assurance.

"Take heart. Have no fear. Blessed are those that are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

Brought back from Egypt on the death of King Herod the Great, who had sought to slay him among the children in Bethlehem, his upbringing in Nazareth remained in the shadow of the Herodians and the Roman Empire.

Three Sons Rule

Three sons of Herod, survivors of family purges that had done away with five other sons, now ruled his divided realm. Archelaus in southern Judea, Herod Antipas in Galilee to the north, and Philip in the mostly pagan region east of there.

Flames of revolt broke out across the country in Jesus' childhood, and turned it into a powderkeg of insurrection and, fierce reprisals throughout his earthly years among men.

Not only he, but his brother, James, and his staunch advocate, John the Baptist, eventually were slain in the onslaughts of imperially dominated rule, which later made martyrs of his apostles and thousands of his early followers.

But it was a grimly familiar situation to Jesus from the very first, from that earliest flight into Egypt to elude the slaughter of Roman legionnaires, and through his maturing days in Galilee, swept by uprisings and scourging troops.

Troops Raze Towns

Near 6 A.D., when he was approaching 12, two Roman legions augmented by horsemen and auxiliaries, under command of Rome's Syrian legate, Varus, stormed through Galilee, Samaria and Judea, razing towns in bloody punishment for uprisings.

"Along this march, nothing escaped them, but all places were full of fire and slaughter," writes first-century historian Flavius Josephus.

Numerous towns, including Sepphoris, just across a valley from Nazareth, were left in smoking ruins, with 30,000 Jews sold into slavery, and 2,000 ring-leaders hunted down and crucified along the roadsides—the Roman penalty for rebellion.

This was around the time, either shortly before or after, Jesus made that youthful pilgrimage to Jerusalem, and become so immersed in conversation with Temple scholars that the Galilean party started back without him.

Searched Three Days

Scripture relates that Mary and Joseph searched three days before finding him. "Did you not know," he said, "that I must be in my Father's house?"

But the bitter upheavals, spurred by alien oppression and that was found also in their attachments of Herod's successors to pagan Rome, began even before the scorched-earth march of Varus, and continued afterward.

"Now at this time there were 10,000 other disorders in Judea which were like tumults because a great number put themselves into a warlike posture," Josephus relates. "Thus did a great and wild fury spread itself over the nation."

At the time Jesus' family returned from Egypt to Nazareth, deciding against going back to Bethlehem because of the turbulence in Judea following Herod's death in 4 B.C., his son, Archelaus, already was involved in retaliations there.

When Temple crowds, lamenting the late king's burning to death of their learned, defiant leaders, Judas and Matthias, stoned a detachment of 1,000 troops sent to disperse them, Archelaus unleashed his entire army to crush the melee.

Merciless Abandon

Foot soldiers and horsemen, laying on in merciless abandon, killed 3,000 Jerusalem people, sending hundreds of others fleeing to the hills to form armed bands to strike back at the foreign predators.

For a time, the whole nation was in revolution, a swelling tide of resistance deploying in three companies to attack Roman forces at the Temple, at the hippodrome outside the walls, and at Herod's palace in the upper city.

Legionnaires finally beat them off, at one point setting fire to the Temple cloisters to dislodge rebels on the roof, most of whom tumbled to their deaths in flames, fighting back with slings and bows to the end.

During this rampage, Archelaus, Herod Antipas and Philip were in Rome, getting their jurisdictions—none equal to their done away with five other sons, father's kingship—confirmed by Caesar Augustus, who overruled appeals from Jewish delegations to end the rule of Herod's line.

Returning to the territories, Archelaus pursued his harsh crushing of dissent, replacing the Temple priesthood, overriding Judaism's moral precepts, imposing extortionate taxes and arousing a wave of revolt that brought Varus' troops flailing across the land.

Banished to Gaul

Archelaus then was deposed and banished to Gaul, succeeded by Coponius, the first of a line of 16 Roman procurators, including Pontius Pilate, to hold Judea in submission, while Philip and Herod Antipas retained their restive tetrarchies in liege to Rome.

It was Herod Antipas who impressed further Greco-Roman features on Galilee, the rural area where Jesus grew up and began his ministry, where he himself defied direct threats of the tetrarch, who had beheaded John the Baptist for denouncing his profligacy.

When Jesus was warned by sympathetic Pharisees to "get away from here, for Herod wants to kill you," Jesus told them, "Go tell that fox . . . I must finish my course . . . I must go my way today and tomorrow and the day following."

In the years before then, Antipas rebuilt Sepphoris as a walled city, the Rome-armed bastion of Galilee, just south of Nazareth. He also walled Betharamphtha, renaming it for Julia, the wife of Augustus Caesar. On the south end of the Sea of Galilee, he built a new city named for Augustus' successor, Tiberius, with elaborate Roman baths over natural warm springs.

Continued Sporadically

Earlier, however, in Jesus' youth, native resistance to foreign-dominated rule broke out like scattered brush fires, and it continued sporadically for more than half a century, until Rome annihilated the nation in 70 A.D.

Writes Josephus: "What did most elevate them (the Jews) in undertaking this war was an ambiguous oracle that was found also in their sacred writings: how about this time one from their country should become governor of the habitable earth."

It was a smoldering time of wrath, hostilities and underground movements, of factions, secret cabals and flaring violence, followed by pursuits and savage repressions.

Time and again, Roman cavalry pounded across the countryside, leaving fields of gore, clapping natives into chains, driving rebels into mountain hideaways. In the hovels of Jerusalem's lower city, Zealot daggermen whispered their vow: "No ruler but God," and sealed it with assassinations of amphi, putting them to the torch and carrying off spoils.

In Jesus' developing years in Galilee, numerous rebel chiefs and his four brothers, known for their herculean physiques and great strength, organized assaults on Roman infantry, once waylaying supply troops at Emmaus, killing 40 Roman soldiers and their commander.

Some rebel leaders, including Simeon and Althronges, soon were captured and slain but others arose, and Judah, in partnership with a Rabbi Zaddok, kept up the struggle for years, communities around the Dead Sea, with their strict codes, "consecrated" weapons and fiercely militant Battle Manual, line was gone, except a grand-son, Herod Agrippa, the son of Aristobulus, one of Herod the

Former Slave Rebels

Another Zealot, Simeon, a tall handsome man who once had been a slave to Herod the Great, donned the diadem of a holy king, and led an attack on the palace at Jericho and at Betharand Lord." Josephus recounts "They do not fear dying any kind of death . . . nor can any such fear make them call any man Lord."

Four other major factions were active in Jesus' time.

The collaborationist Sadducees, who worked arm-in-arm with Rome and its puppet rulers, made up of aristocratic landowners and merchants, who dominated the Jewish judicial-executive council, the Great Sanhedrin, and who were indifferent to religion, other than its practical, legal prerogatives.

Pacifist Pharisees

The pacifist, devout Pharisees, mostly unpropertied but scholarly men, dedicated to the Torah and prophetic ideals, scrupulous in their conduct, working at trades, but also serving as respected teachers and exemplars to the people, bearers of the vital spiritual traditions of Judaism.

The Essenes, aloof, ascetic separatists, living in isolated communities around the Dead Sea, with their strict codes, "consecrated" weapons and fiercely militant Battle Manual, line was gone, except a grand-son, Herod Agrippa, the son of Aristobulus, one of Herod the —The Herodians, who along with the Sadducees, firmly supported the Roman establishment, and who frequently are cited in Scripture as opponents of Jesus, including the time they baited him about whether he approved paying taxes to Caesar. "Show me a coin Whose likeness and inscription has it?" "Caesar's."

"Then render to Caesar the things that art Caesar's and to God the things that are God's."

Anti-Jewish Advisor

The "lion," Tiberius, became emperor in 11 A.D. on the death of Augustus, and under influence of his bitterly anti-Jewish advisor, Sejanus, Tiberius named Pontius Pilate in 26 A.D. as the fifth procurator in Judea.

In his 10 years there, Pilate repeatedly had to crush uprisings, once disguising soldiers as citizens to put the sword to hunt in the Temple square, slaughtering a mass gathering of Jews in Samaria, sending Jesus to the cross.

He finally was removed by Rome for his brutality in 36 A.D., but the next year, in 37 A.D., the death of Tiberius brought to power a new, more grossly cruel emperor Caligula.

He banished Herod Antipas to France in 39 A.D., and with Philip having died in 34 A.D., the last of Herod the Great's line was gone, except a grand-son, Herod Agrippa, the son of Aristobulus, one of Herod the Great's sons whom he had had briefly ruled his father's old kingdom from 41 to 44 A.D., and subsequently, ungratified hunt with the brute emperor Nero, and joined with his Roman generals, Vespasian and Titus, in devastating Jerusalem in fire and blood in 70 A.D.

End of Israel's Life

That was the end of Israel's life for 1,878 years until 1948. And it was the final louch of the spawn of Herod the Great.

Secular historians, in those years, say little of Jesus, but what they say is revealing, Tacitus tells of a "great multitude" being Christians, deriving their name "from one Christ, who was executed in the reign of Tiberius by the procurator of Judea, Pontius Pilate."

Josephus mentions the "stoning of James, the brother of Jesus, called the Christ." Suetonius tells of an expulsion of Jews from Rome for disorders "instigated because of Christus." A later emperor, Diocletian, after 10 years of killing Christians, had this inscription put on the Roman Coliseum:

"The Christians are no more."

It was the savage, erroneous postscript which Herod's masters in Rome wrote to a Christ-

Selective Service Chief?

Tarr Denies White House Offer

Curtis W. Tarr, former Lawrence University president, this morning denied that he had been asked to become director of the Selective Service.

He said that a White House official had conversed with him about a month ago in connection with the job. But he indicated surprise and concern about published reports that an actual offer had been made to him.

Tarr, an assistant secretary of the Air Force, indicated a reluctance to take the job as successor to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey. "I personally would be disappointed to leave my present job," he said.

A story in today's Milwaukee Sentinel said unnamed sources had disclosed the job offer to Tarr. The Sentinel story also said that another former Wisconsin man, Roger T. Kelley, director of the Defense Department manpower program, is a candidate.

No Comment

White House sources had no comment on the reports that the two men were being considered.

"I don't know whether I'm on the list of candidates or not," Tarr said today. He said White House aide Peter Flanigan, who talked with him for about an hour, was "more interested in what my future is in my present job, what I am doing now."

"When Flanigan left, he said 'Well, I'll see you,'" Tarr said. "Well, I'll see you," Tarr said he had heard nothing from Flanigan or anybody else about the job since.

"The White House doesn't work in connection with Air Force management and reserves has little, if any, connection with the job in question, since the Air Force does not use the draft."

Better Qualified?

"I suppose this will get me in trouble with the White House," Tarr added lightly about the Sentinel's report. "I wonder what I should do now."

The Sentinel also said Tarr had suggested Kelley as better qualified to administer the draft. The story did not say to whom Tarr had suggested Kelley's name.

Tarr said today that the Sentinel reporter had suggested Kelley as a candidate, and that in half jest Tarr had responded, "I would recommend him."

Hershey is due to leave his job Feb. 16. He pays about $38,000. Tarr's present job pays about $32,000.

Tarr became president of Lawrence in 1963. He left Lawrence in June to take the government post. During 1968 and early 1969 he had spent much of his time as chairman of a governor's task force studying local government organization and the distribution of state aids and shared taxes.

Tarr was active in the Republican party in his native California, where he ran unsuccessfully for Congress. In Wisconsin, Tarr's wife was a leading support of the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Tarr

offer you a job unless they are ready to accept you, and unless you are ready to accept the job," he added.

Tarr said that his present

Fox Valley Counties May Not Be Eligible for Back Welfare

Court Upholds Suit Against State for $3.5 Million

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Although a Circuit Court in Madison has backed a suit claiming that the state has deprived counties of $3.5 million in welfare budget assistance, several Fox Valley counties may collect little or nothing because of their administrative setup. Some even may have been overpaid.

However, the legal section of the State Department of Health and Social Services had indicated that this administrative hangup may be overcome, meaning substantially higher reimbursement for some Fox Valley counties.

The court ruling came Tuesday from Judge William Sachtleben, who said the state had inaccurately interpreted a statute which was adopted to conform with changes in the Social Security law of 1965. The suit had insisted that state officials incorrectly included general relief costs in the formula used to calculate state reimbursement to counties.

The hangup for Fond du Lac, Brown, Outagamie and Winnebago counties is that they are that filed the suit feel the state owes them for the years 1964-67 relief in which the cities, villages and towns administered state reimbursement instead of the counties. The statute involved in the 65-66 biennium, this payment would be a one-shot deal, administration, so these counties apparently could only collect lect for their negligible administration of general relief to that general relief costs be included. The argument persisted, despite a 1968 ruling to the contrary from the state attorney general's office.

If the ruling stands but counties with unit systems can collect only for county-administered nonresident general relief, Winnebago would collect $4.113; Fond du Lac, $18,800, and statute was based had intended, Outagamie, $16,000, although Eggert would not quote a figure.

He is optimistic for receiving more because of his conversation with legal section officials.

Were Paid More

Under the ruling, Calumet and Brown have been paid more, and theoretically, should return part of their reimbursement for 1966-67.

With all its fiscal troubles, there is a question whether the state could ever hope to come up with the $3.5 million, which would be more under the interpretation including unit system counties.

"We experienced no hardship," said Norman Whitford, director of the Winnebago welfare department. "The hardship

State Says Specific Statute Is Best for Safety Building

The Wisconsin attorney general's office has issued an opinion that the "safe way" for Outagamie County and Appleton to proceed if they build a joint safety building is under the safety building statute 66.508, rather than under the municipal cooperation agreement statute.

The opinion was contained in a letter received by Outagamie County Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath this morning.

Under a new state law, the W. Ponath and County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, refused to disclose the specific contents of the opinion in a dispute among county board members as to which direction to proceed toward a joint safety building with Appleton.

Under 66.508 all procedures, including financing, cost-sharing and operations, are spelled out while under 66.30 all such decisions are left up to the two legislative bodies. Some supervisors felt 66.508 was mandatory since it was a newer statute.

The opinion issued by the state apparently does not indicate that 66.508 is mandatory but rather that it is preferred.

Reason For Statute

The letter indicates that 66.508 was created because communities which built safety buildings under 66.30 had run into difficulties because of that statute's vagueness. This resulted in the view that 66.508 was the "safe way" to proceed.

There were indications, however, that the opinion will not settle the question.

Esler said he was informed in Madison Tuesday that it would probably take a court case to determine the exact intent of 66.508.

Esler was in Madison for a meeting of the Urban Counties committee which was set up by the Wisconsin County Boards Association at its September convention.

He said the safety building was discussed with representatives from the attorney general's office who were at the meeting on other matters.

Area Counties High In Tax Levy Hikes

Outagamie, Winnebago Among 6 In State to Exceed $500,000

Outagamie and Winnebago counties were two of six in the state which reported tax levy increases for 1970 in excess of $500,000, according to the Wisconsin Public Expenditure Survey, a private, nonprofit research agency.

The survey reported that a record 70 of the 72 counties had levy increases for 1970. However, only 45 counties required a tax rate increase as increased property valuations offset levy increases in the remainder.

The tax levy is that portion of the budget which is raised by local property taxes.

No Mail on Christmas Or Friday

There will be no mail delivery in the Fox Cities Christmas Day or Friday, according to Appleton Postmaster Francis Summich.

President Nixon has declared Friday a holiday for all federal employees. No delivery of mail on city or rural routes will be made, although lock box service will be provided, lobbies will be open for use of stamp vending machines, and special delivery will be available. Holiday collections will be made and postal stations will be open.

Final dispatch at Appleton is at 6:20 p.m. Normal Saturday delivery and Post Office window service will be resumed Saturday.

Winnebago County had a levy increase of $851,815. Outagamie County's was $573,474. The other four counties with levy increases of more than $500,000 were Milwaukee, $9 million; Dane, $2.1 million; Marathon, $716,118, and Racine, $692,924.

Waupaca County

Waupaca County, with a levy increase of $211,509, fell in a group of 11 counties with increases between $200,000 and $300,000.

Calumet County's increase of $132,972 put it with 14 other counties with increases between $100,000 and $200,000.

The only counties which had actual reductions in tax levies were Oneida, $171,129, and Green, $64,687.

The Public Expenditure Survey showed the tax levy for all 72 counties was up 10.5 per cent for 1970 while the total equalized property valuation for all 72 counties was up 8.7 per cent.

Average Increase

In figures supplied by county clerks, the statewide average tax rate for county purposes rose 14 cents from $7 to $7.14 per $1,000 of equalized valuation.

Clerks also reported extensive use of surplus to hold down levies. Fifty-one clerks reported applying surpluses ranging from $48 in Rock County to $800,000 in Waukesha County. Oneida County did not use surplus funds to achieve its lower tax levy for next year.

Tax levy increases for the other comparable counties include Sheboygan, $419,771; Manitowish, $318,188; Fond du Lac, $227,300, and Brown, $75,928.

By George It's Cold

A chill wind blew out the mayor's office Tuesday afternoon.

The thermometer in Mayor George Buckley's office dropped to 60 degrees, and sent his secretary scurrying to the basement for warmth.

Buckley temporarily had his phone calls switched by the telephone company to the city attorney's number, then he had the door locked and a sign posted to notify visitors of the temporary relocation due to heating problems.

The problems recur every winter, but according to Buckley, they have been worse this season.

The Public Works Department has consulted a heating contractor and plans to propose an $8,000 solution to the difficulty, which stems primarily from the fact that there are only two thermostats in City Hall. The heating plant itself is relatively new.

Neither thermostat is in the mayor's office, which suffers doubly because it is on the end of the line for steam among first-floor radiators. Heat for the north side of the building is controlled by a thermostat in the inspection department, at the opposite end of the hall from the mayor's office. The south side is regulated from a room in the basement.

It is common for some offices to have windows open to cool off while others remain chilly.

The subject becomes a hot item for discussion this time of year, and has attracted numerous students. They say the wind has as much to do with the temperature as the thermostats do.

Yesterday, a wintry wind was stirring at the windows from the mayor's end of the building, and the blustery blasts are blamed for the temporary relocation of his headquarters.

Another method the mayor's secretary has used has been to take her work into the main corridor where she has at least once this week set up shop on a pair of chairs.

An extra electrical outlet also has been installed near her desk in the reception area outside Buckley's office, and on less severely cold days she uses the outlet to operate an electric heater.

Generally the mayor has accepted the situation in good humor, blaming his secretary's complaints on faulty metabolism. But Tuesday's wind frosted his humor and up went the sign on the door.

Today the wind had died, the temperature was up to a comfortable 72, the sign was down and the secretary was upstairs.

With the problems of cities such as they are, Appleton may be the only municipality in the nation where the mayor is crying for more heat.

1970 Menasha Teacher Pact Still Unsettled

MENASHA — The settlement of negotiations on teacher contracts for the 1970 year cannot yet be predicted, Dr. Alan Osterndorf, superintendent said Tuesday.

Osterndorf said the school board's negotiating team is meeting regularly with Local 1186, American Federation of Teachers, but he said he couldn't even guess when an agreement would be reached.

The 1970 school budget includes a lump sum of $124,037 to handle wage and salary adjustments plus new personnel.

Spring Settlement

Last year, the school district also put in an estimated amount since negotiations were not completed by the time of budget approval. The 1969 contracts were settled by spring of 1969.

The current year's salary schedule has a base of $6,700 for starting teachers with a bachelor's degree. Teachers with a bachelor's degree plus 15 educational credits have a base of $7,100, teachers with a master's degree, a base of $7,400 and teachers with a master's degree plus 24 credits, a base of $7,600.

The base salaries are raised in accordance with the number of years of teaching experience.

The teacher contract negotiations in Menasha began last fall. In the 1970 budget, salaries and wages take up about 75 per cent of the total package.

Dr. Cahill to Serve Center At Manitowoc

Guidance Officer Announces Intent To Leave Early in '71

NEENAH — Dr. Charles A. Cahill, medical director of the Manitowoc County Guidance Center, will give up his post early in 1971 when he takes over as medical director of the Manitowoc County Mental Health Center.

Dr. Cahill will end six years with the guidance center at the end of this month although his terminal leave will extend until mid-February.

An interim psychiatrist, Dr. Harry Colgan, of Neenah, will take over as medical director until a permanent director is appointed, according to an announcement by the guidance center Tuesday.

Dr. Cahill officially takes over as Manitowoc director on Jan. 8, 1970, according to the administrator of the health center.

The appointment of a full-time director to take over at the guidance center came under heavy attack by the Manitowoc County Board this fall. Supervisors questioned the $35,000 proposed salary of a full-time man and also attacked convention expenses of personnel at the guidance center.

Dr. Cahill holds a part-time position with the guidance center, and the center has looked toward a full-time director.

Klein Eyes Early City Contracts

MENASHA — Mayor John Klein said Tuesday that he is hopeful the city can reach agreement with city bargaining groups when they return from the Christmas holidays.

No agreements have been reached between the city and the three employee bargaining groups they are facing this year, but Klein said today that settlements are close in each case.

"I don't see why we can't get this settled next week," he said.

Spokesmen for Local 34 of the Menasha Professional Police Men's Association and Local 695, Professional Fire Fighters Association, AFL-CIO, both say the two groups are nearing a settlement with the city.

Klein also said the city is near an agreement with Local 1035, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Included in Local 1035 this year, after recognition at the principal, said Nov. 18 common council meeting, are 15 city employees who allow the high school students asked that Local 1035 be recognized as their bargaining unit ships and to ask questions about this year.

ICC Fines Neenah Firm $500

NEENAH — The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) has announced a settlement with Midwest Bulk Inc., 1100 Winneconne Ave., for violations of the Interstate Commerce Act.

The $500 settlement came after the firm had been charged with for-hire transportation of coke beyond the territorial scope of the certificate issued by the ICC.

According to Chifton Schultz, president of the Neenah firm, the hauling took place about a year ago when the coal companies were on strike. "We had to haul beyond our limits to keep the foundries in the area operating," he said.

"It was purely an emergency measure to keep the boundaries supplied with the coke," he explained.

The ICC claimed that Midwest hauled from St. Paul, Minn., to Adell, Neenah, Milwaukee, Wausau and Waupun.

Concern for the Less Fortunate

Christmas Spirit Abounds

NEENAH-MENASHA — Winneconne County is a fine example of the old adage that giving is better than receiving.

For the homeless — young and old — the disabled and the needy have not been forgotten in the excitement and happiness of Christmas.

Church groups, civic and service agencies, sororities and fraternities of Oshkosh State University, schools, business and individuals have contacted the Winneconne County Department of Social Services to help those who might otherwise have a not-so-happy Christmas.

"People have called with clothing and toys to give to families," Mrs. Jane O'Brien of the social services department said.

The department has given out lists of names of AC (Aid to Dependent Children) families, people on old age assistance and those who are isolated or living alone, whether they are on assistance or not.

Alpha Phi Omega, a fraternity at OSU, has donated Christmas trees for ADC families and those on old age assistance.

Other fraternities and sororities have given Christmas parties for children with whom the department is working.

Grocery stores have donated complete Christmas dinners for those who would benefit by them, and the Salvation Army has collected toys for many children, Mrs. O'Brien said.

A cub scout pack from St. Patrick's Church in Menasha donated toys, and the Campfire Girls of Winneconne County sang Christmas songs at several adult foster homes and handed out presents.

Many schools have also contributed, whether it was making and sending Christmas cards to people in nursing homes, singing or collecting toys for more needy children.

Food Certificates

The Boys Brigade of Neenah-Menasha gave out toys and food certificates, the Winneconne County foster parents gave a party for foster children and ADC mothers held a special party for children.

Another helping hand has been the Christmas Giving Committee of the Community Council which has overseen the distribution of food and gifts to families.

Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Hugo Erdmann of the Christmas Giving Committee said help is provided to all whom the social services department and committee knows need a brighter Christmas.

Out at the Winneconne County Home, Pleasant Acres and the Winneconne State Hospital, the residents have also not been forgotten.

80 Groups

More than 80 groups and individuals donated food, gifts, and decorations and sang songs and held parties for those at the county hospital and Pleasant Acres. The event is known annually as "Operation Santa Claus."

The list of those extending a helping hand is almost endless.

And the less fortunate, the disabled and homeless of Winneconne County have found this year, as in past years, that residents of Winneconne County want to make Christmas more than just another day.

Steiger Applauds New Residency Requirement in Voting Rights Act

WASHINGTON — A greater won't to vote "the Oshkosh Republican said

But local residency should not be required in order to vote in a national election," he said, noting that the Census Bureau estimates more than 5.5 million citizens were disenfranchised in 1968 because they could not meet residency requirements on election day.

Stake in Community

He said residency requirements for local or state elections are reasonable in order to insure every citizen has a stake in the local issues.

Steiger said the new rules on residency requirements are of special importance.

Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh

The new national Voting Rights Act is a valuable effort to insure every citizen his hard-

Christmas Mail Declines in NM

NEENAH-MENASHA — according to Ambrose Gracy Christmas mail volumes in the area, Menasha assistant Postmaster and Neenah post office.

The Zip Code, which the Post Office department has been promoting for faster mail service, is now starting to be used by a majority of customers.

In Menasha, the volume drop-promoting for faster mail service has dropped from 2.7 million pieces of mail handled by a majority of customers last year to 2.5 million this year.

No extra part-time help was hired by either Post Office, about 75 per cent of the Menasha mail going through the Neenah Post Office was coded according to the existing staff.

Howard Schmidt, assistant zip code is not as valuable on Neenah postmaster, said the local level as it is on a customers continued their practice of regional basis.

"The regional office of mailing early this year centers use it to dispatch the current and were not overloaded destinations. After it's here we in a single day," he said.

The Neenah Post Office started to go to overtime work about Dec. 11 Menasha was forced to that inexperienced help in the overtime status earlier be regional offices are able to handle it with a minimum of due to three retirements, training."

Steiger also lauded the new voting rights act for its extension of the voting rights guaranteed in the 1965 Voting Rights Act, which dealt with eight southern states. The 1969 act extends these provisions "to all of the states and all citizens the protection" that has up until now been "reserved for a few."

He said the ban on literacy tests and the power to send federal voting examiners and observers is "made national," and the attorney general is given nationwide power to initiate voting rights law suits.

is on the state to come up with the monies, since it already is short of funds."

He said the money, if received, would probably go to the county's general fund, as a credit to his department.

Eggert noted that Outagamie had not been hurt by the state's shortchanging because his department had "smelled a rat." His department had transferred many general relief cases to other programs, including aid to families of dependent children, to take the pressure off municipalities, he said.

"This cut down their (municipalities) general relief expenditures drastically (during the 1966-67 biennium)," he added.

Decision Explained

In his decision Tuesday, Sachljen explained his interpretation.

"It would be a dangerous precedent to allow administrative officials to inject ambiguity within a statute when there is none to permit them to indulge in the exercise of discretion as to what legislature intended," Sachljen said.

If the legislature "had intended to include general relief in the formula, it could have easily said so," the judge added.

"There is no language to indicate this."

The counties which filed suits and sums are: Portage $17,708, Waushara $83,007, Manitowish $12,652, Sauk $24,095, Sheboygan $35,369, Racine $83,007, Dunn $11,569, Chippewa $24,741, Dane $172,339, Rock $55,233, Wood $62,268 and Milwaukee $2,901,974.

Driver in Fatal Crash Enters Innocent Plea

A 38-year-old rural Appleton man whose truck was involved in a fatal accident Oct. 16, Tuesday afternoon pleaded innocent to a charge of homicide by intoxicated use of a vehicle.

Thomas Buelow, route 3, entered the plea in Circuit Court. Although Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell did not set a date for trial, indications are it will be late in January.

Buelow's attorney said it would take him at least 30 days to prepare for trial. He said he also plans to file pretrial motions. Buelow remains free on a $1,500 signature bond. He was bound over to Circuit Court last week after a preliminary hearing in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

He was charged after his truck collided with a car driven by Karen Lom, 16, route 3, on N. Meade Street near County Trunk S. Miss Lom was killed in the crash.

Hopfensperger To Terminate Meat Business

Land Too Valuable To House 65-Year Sausage Company

A 65-year-old Appleton business which provides sausage for northeastern Wisconsin will terminate operation Dec. 31, it was announced today.

Hopfensperger Bros., Inc., which operates Hopfensperger Sausage & Wholesale Meat Co., 418-420 W. College Ave., has arranged to sell all its assets. Andrew Hopfensperger, vice president and general manager, said.

The sale is being handled by the firm's financial adviser, MRO, Inc., Milwaukee financial consulting firm. The entire company is not being sold as a unit but the plant and garage at 724 W. Washington St., and the equipment each are being sold to separate buyers.

"There are buyers for all assets," said Donald Fedie, MRO president. No total price was quoted for the corporation.

The closing will mean an end to Appleton Brand sausage.

The firm employs 30-35 persons normally and up to about 50 during peak summer and holiday periods. Its annual gross sale total well over $500,000.

The operation was started in 1904 by Charles Hopfensperger, who operated from a little store. The business grew and his brother, Edward, joined.

When Charles retired several years ago, his sons Andrew and Norman took over his share. When Norman died some time ago, Andrew took over his part.

The Appleton Brand is being distributed along a line from Wausau to Appleton and north, including Door and Kewaunee counties.

One of the reasons for selling, Andrew said, is the property on which the operation is located is "too valuable for a sausage plant."

He said some of the employees would be retiring and others would find jobs elsewhere.

Mother of Six Faces Charges

Little Chute Woman Arrested in Appleton On Hit-Run Count

Four charges were lodged against a 31-year-old Little Chute mother of six who allegedly fought police and smashed a window in jail early today.

Ronnie Boucher, 525 Park Ave., appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on two counts of disorderly conduct, and one each of resisting arrest and hit and run.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer continued the case to Friday afternoon to allow her more time to consult her attorney. Because she has six children, ranging in age from one through 11, at home, Schaefer released her on a $510 signature bond.

Appleton police said they stopped the car she was driving about 1:35 a.m. today at Morrison Street and Wisconsin Avenue. They stopped the auto, they said, because there was damage to the right front and the headlights kept flashing off and on.

Police said Mrs. Boucher swore at them and refused to cooperate when they asked her for her driver's license.

After several warnings, police arrested her for disorderly conduct, they said. She reportedly struck a policeman in the face and left eye while attempts were being made to get her into the squad car.

Police said she fought most of the way to jail, and at one point struck an officer in the head. She was handcuffed.

While waiting for the jail elevator at the courthouse, Mrs. Boucher reportedly kicked the same officer who she earlier struck in the face.

She reportedly refused to give jailers information and after being placed in a waiting room until a matron arrived, she used a chair to smash a door glass. She was in jail until her court appearance today.

County authorities brought one disorderly conduct charge as a result of the window breaking in the jail. The other charges were filed by city police, who contend her car had struck a parked auto in the 200 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue.

Attacks Launched During First Hours Of Christmas Truce

Few Incidents Involving U.S. Troops Reported in Cease-Fire

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The allies began a 24-hour Christmas truce tonight and in the first hours four enemy attacks were reported. The Viet Cong had begun the holiday cease-fire 17 hours earlier.

The South Vietnamese Command said the attack began shortly after the allied cease-fire went into effect and resulted in two enemy and two regional force soldiers killed. Five Vietnamese soldiers were wounded.

The U.S. Command said that "preliminary reports indicate the situation is relatively quiet" for American forces with "very few incidents reported."

60 Operations

The South Vietnamese military command said it had suspended as many as 60 offensive operations of battalion size or larger throughout the country. Spokesmen said the allies were keeping up local patrols and reconnaissance flights and would fire first if it appeared that enemy troops on the move were threatening them.

A U.S. communique said American forces "will maintain an alert posture and will take necessary security precautions to protect friendly forces or installations."

Although air attacks on targets in South Vietnam were suspended for 24 hours, sources said U.S. planes were continuing their attacks on North Vietnamese infiltration routes in Eastern Laos.

Serious Incident

In the hours between the start of the enemy and allied cease-fires, a period in which the allied commands said their forces continued operations as usual, the U.S. Command reported one serious incident which it considered a Viet Cong violation of the enemy's own cease-fire.

A claymore mine went off, apparently detonated electrically by remote control, killed four American soldiers, and wounded five American troops, two South Vietnamese soldiers and two Vietnamese civilians. The troops were sweeping a road 20 miles northwest of Saigon and three miles from the headquarters of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division. Two women suspects were being questioned.

An hour or so before, troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division backed by an armored column ran into more than 100 North Vietnamese troops entrenched in bunkers near Cambodian border 75 miles north of Saigon. The Americans pulled back and called in artillery and bombers to attack U.S. headquarters said 30 enemy soldiers were killed, 14 bunkers were smashed, and there were no American casualties.

South Vietnamese headquarters said Viet Cong snipers during the day opened fire on a government team six miles northwest of Saigon and wounded one man.

In the six hours Tuesday night just before the Viet Cong cease-fire started, five terrorist attacks were reported, four of them in Saigon. Three persons were killed and 60 wounded.

Bomb in Churchyard

The worst incident occurred in a village 16 miles south of Da Nang. Officials said a 14-year-old boy planted a time bomb in a churchyard as a large crowd was watching a Christmas play. The child slipped away and the bomb went off, killing two civilians and wounding 62.

Three explosive charges went off in Saigon, killing a Vietnamese and wounding four others. Police also chased off a team of saboteurs trying to burn a canal bridge.

Allied communiques reported only light, scattered action Tuesday. Seventy enemy soldiers were reported killed, most of them by artillery fire. The allied commands reported only one casualty, an American Marine wounded.

8 Oil Companies Fined in Conspiracy To Fix Prices, Sales to Distributors

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A total of $550,000 in fines has been levied against eight major oil companies for conspiring to fix prices and sales to private brand distributors.

The firms were charged in a 1965 indictment with conspiring to monopolize interstate trade of gasoline products in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania area.

The indictment charged that the conspiracy began in 1955. The firms fined $100,000 each pleaded no defense to two counts. Cities Service Corp. also pleaded no defense to two counts, and the others pleaded no defense to one count each.

The indictment alleged that the firms, which bring crude oil into the area through the same pipelines, had virtually forced to monopolize interstate trade of gasoline products in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania area.

The federal government charged that this was done by fixing the price and maintaining control over the amount of oil sold to small distributors.

The firms charged that the conspiracy began in 1955. The firms fined $100,000 each pleaded no defense to two counts. Cities Service Corp. also pleaded no defense to two counts, and the others pleaded no defense to one count each.

Child's Eye View Santa Lives in San Diego

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Santa Claus is 4 years old, or maybe 80.

He makes toys in a factory at the North Pole, or perhaps he buys them in the stores.

He lives somewhere in the snowy wastes of the Arctic, or possibly in San Diego.

It all depends on which child you ask.

A cross section of child impressions of the jolly old saint was obtained by reporters for newspapers in Long Beach, Redondo Beach and Ventura who questioned youngsters 2 to 5 years old in their communities.

Some of the findings:

A 5-year-old Long Beach girl thought Santa was 5, "but you can't tell because he has a big mask on his face."

A 2-year-old called him "old, just like my daddy."

Said another, "I don't know how old he is. I haven't seen him since last year."

Where was Santa born? "In the office," said Steve Portugal of Ventura, "and he delivers toys in an airplane."

Said Karen Kaiser of Ventura, "I know that Santa was born in a hospital, and he met Mrs. Santa at McDonald's." (That's a local restaurant.)

Santa's address is 75654 North Pole Street," said Donald McMullen, 4, of Santa Paula. "His house is surrounded by the houses of elves."

But a little girl chimed in, "Oh, no. Santa lives on Carol Drive in San Diego. His daddy helps him make all the toys in his garage."

How did Santa meet Mrs. Claus?

"He's a bachelor," said one lot.

Others theorized that romance flowered on a motorcycle, going down a chimney, at a store, in a tree, during piano lessons or at the playground.

Further observations:

"You don't have to be good all the time to get presents. He brings them to you anyway."

"His reindeer eat snow and ice and fly around the moon. They don't land there because there are no children on the moon."

"He can see and hear us all year long. Letters are not necessary."

Prisoner of War Families Get Word

Americans were being well treated and better fed than most Vietnamese.

Mrs. Weiss displayed three Christmas drawings which she said were drawn by prisoner Gerald Coffee of Sanford, Fla. One had a red bell in the center and said "Merry Christmas."

She also displayed two drawings she said were done by Navy Lt. David Jay Carey of Jeanette, Pa., and several cartoons she said were by prisoner Albert Edwards Ruivan of Sumpter, S.C.

American officials have complained that prisoners are not allowed to receive or send mail and packages but Mrs. Weiss said: "We have every reason to believe that difficulty with respect to the mail will be eased."

Send Mail

She encouraged relatives to send one letter per month and one package every other month weighing less than six pounds to prisoner's name, serial number, Camp for Detention of Pilots Captured in the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, DRVN. The envelope should be marked Via Moscow.

"The men will be released when the over-all solutions to the war are discussed," she said, "and it is up to President Nixon to recognize that the only solution to the war is to withdraw all forces and agree to a coalition government in the South."

"We really wish we could have brought the men back instead of their mail," Mrs. Weiss added. Lacking their men, most of the families were more than happy to settle for the mail.

Happy Day

"It was the happiest day of our lives," we were stunned with happiness," said Mrs. C. H. Becker of Palo Alto, Calif., after 2 1/2 years of wondering whether her grandson, flier Henry Hope Fowler, was dead or alive.

"If this is true, then it will be the merriest Christmas I've ever had," said Mrs. Donnie Katherine Collins in Jackson, Miss., upon hearing that her husband, Air Force Capt. Thomas Edward Collins III, was on the list.

She said the only official notification received by the family from the Pentagon was that he was missing in action since he was shot down in October 1965.

Promises Exchanged Marriage Counselor Analyzes Conflicts

Honeymooning in New Orleans are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Warren Olsen Jr. who were married in a 7 p.m. ceremony Thursday at St. Therese Catholic Church.

The bride, the former Miss Nora Ellen Crowe, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius F. Crowe, 610 E. Eldorado St. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Olsen, Baltimore, Md.

Miss Jane Daleiden, Chicago and Joseph W. Olsen were honor attendants.

Michael Crowe, David Schallhorn and John C. Ernst Jr. seated guests.

The couple greeted guests at a reception at St. Therese Hall.

They will reside at Ft. Hood Texas where Mr. Olsen is stationed with the Army.

BY ALISON GODDARD

SUMMIT, N. J. Seven basic problems lead to marital conflict, a New Jersey marriage counselor has told the Information Center on the Mature Woman.

The problems cited by Mrs. Ruth Horowitz, a professional therapist, involve children, sex, alcohol, in-laws, religion, housekeeping and finances.

But Mrs. Horowitz points out that these are often only the symptoms, not the cause. "You'll find that these problems cause less difficulty—in fact, they often evaporate—once the underlying resentment and hurts are worked through and understood," she said.

To illustrate her point, Mrs. Horowitz cited one family therapy session during which "the children were saying terrible things to the father." The therapist looked at the mother. "I never saw such an angry, mean-looking expression on a woman. She was giving them the subliminal message of how much she had against that father and they were getting that message loud and clear."

Two Common Problems

One common area of conflict is finances. "Money," Mrs. Horowitz pointed out, "also has emotional value. Some people feel that it gives them status, prestige and power. But at its deepest level, money really stands for love." A woman often buys an extravagant hat or expensive perfume to convince herself that she is really loved. "If a spouse misuses money," said the therapist, "then what happens is the partner feels a threat to whatever values he associated with money."

Another problem centers on drinking. "Very often, though not always, alcohol takes the place of love from the mate. When we have worked through the block that's damming back the love between them, then the need for drinking is diminished and, in some cases, altogether abated."

Mrs. Horowitz finds it helpful to visit in their own homes the people who come to her for therapy. On one such visit the problem centered on the husband's drinking. He was a self-made man with little formal education. His wife, however, was an educated woman. At dinner, Mrs. Horowitz said, the children talked chiefly to the mother, ignoring the father or receiving his comments with disdain.

"Now this man, when he finally couldn't stand it any more, would drink. He would drink enough to permit himself to express all of his anger, and enough to let him develop an amnesia so he wouldn't know what he had done. And he did wild things. Once, after the house had been freshly painted, he destroyed the results by scribbling on the walls with a black crayon."

The Mature Woman

Problems in other areas, whether they seemingly center on sex, children or housekeeping, often obscure deeper ones that the individual involved refuses to face.

An additional, underlying factor in the emotional problems of many mature women, whether they are married, widowed, divorced or single, is the menopause—the so-called change of life. The menopause can cause both physiological and emotional upsets. Mrs. Horowitz said, "I always send them to a gynecologist because they can be helped enormously with hormones at this time."

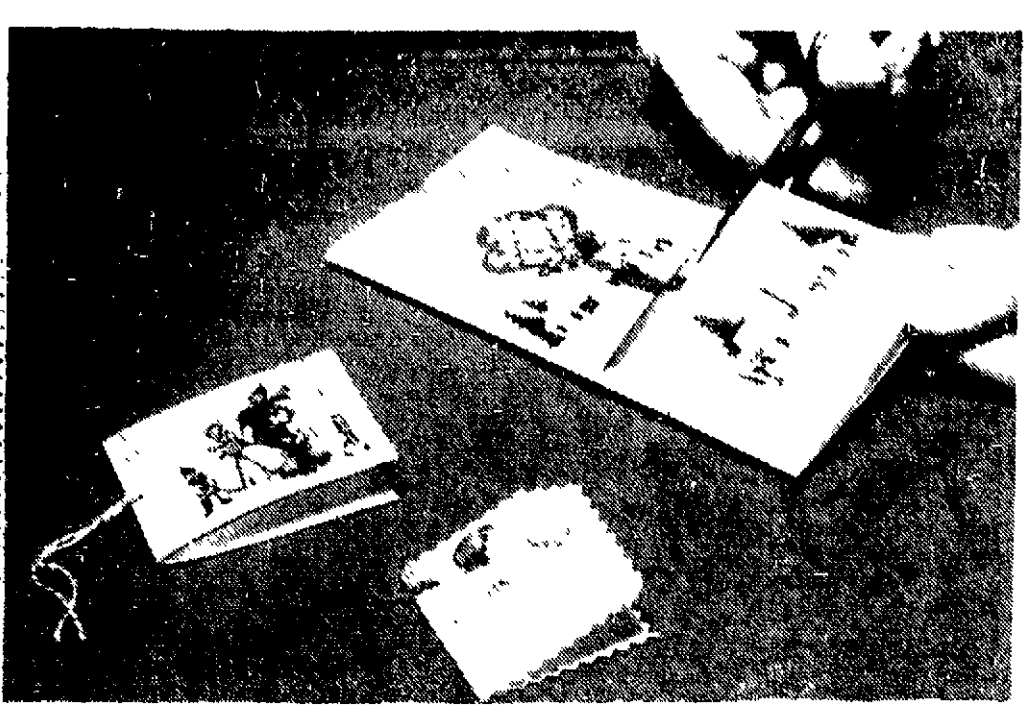

She cited an emotionally charged situation that can be troublesome at this period in a woman's life. "Mothers very often come into menopause just as their daughters are coming into adolescence, and here's where the plot very often thickens, because the mother sometimes is jealous of her beautiful and budding adolescent daughter."

Seek Professional Help

"The girl will really be attracted toward her father and will be somewhat jealous, and therefore hostile toward her mother and the stage is set for fireworks. Because the mother is in menopause we let her behave like the Dickens. Really, we shouldn't. The daughter needs understanding at this time quite as much as the mother." The mother, she suggested, requires medical help.

Mrs. Horowitz also suggests that couples with marital or family problems seek professional help. If they are unable to do so, she advised honest self-appraisal. "Try to stand in your mate's shoes, sit in his chair, and try to feel what life is like for him. Ask yourself—what does he need from me? How can I make his life better?"

"If you try to make his life better and meet his needs, I think you will find he is going to reciprocate by looking at your needs and trying to make your life better too," said the marriage counselor.

Never Too Early to Introduce Toddlers to World of Music

How old is "old enough" for music training? How worthwhile is music appreciation for the very young? Should a toddler be allowed to amuse himself by "playing" the piano?

These are only a few of the many questions frequently asked by parents of pre-school children, according to Constance Wagner, music education consultant to the Story & Clark Piano Company, Lincolnwood, Ill. And here are some of her answers.

The matter of when a child is old enough to start a program of formal music instruction depends entirely on the maturity of the individual youngster, she said.

"Music educators generally agree that, from the standpoint of physical coordination and readiness to learn, eight is the ideal age for the average boy or girl to begin piano lessons," Miss Wagner observed. "However, there really is no inflexible rule."

"Occasionally we'll hear of an exceptional four- or five-year-old whose musical prowess has been recognized and developed by a dedicated teacher," she added. "But most piano teachers are reluctant to accept pupils that young."

Even at seven, few children can be expected to follow a regular practice schedule between lessons. When study is started prematurely and practice sessions are turned into parent-child battles, the result is likely to be an eight-year-old "musical drop-out," the consultant cautioned.

"Better to delay lessons a year or two, if you're at all doubtful," she said.

It's never too early, however, to start building a child's interest in music. Even an infant responds when his mother sings a lullaby. And by the time he's a year old, he may be keeping time with songs played on the radio.

"When you hear your toddler trying to mimic the jingles from radio and TV commercials you'll know he's ready to start learning easy nursery songs," Miss Wagner said. "This is also the time to consider some sort of music appreciation program in the home."

Music should never be forced upon a child to the exclusion of other activities, she advised. But if the parents obviously enjoy listening to good music on a hi-fi or FM radio, some of their enthusiasm is bound to "rub off."

Even before he's old enough to handle a record player on his own, the pre-schooler may be ready for his own "learning to listen" records, the consultant suggested.

"Encourage reactions to music—dancing, marching, singing along, perhaps even playing 'pretend' instruments," she advised. "Without realizing it, your child will be learning to distinguish sense of pitch."

Until he learns the difference between noise and music, a toddler's early efforts at the piano keyboard will be hard to tolerate—particularly for an older brother or sister who may be taking lessons.

In fairness to the one who has lessons to learn, mother should keep the pre-schooler occupied elsewhere during practice time.

"Rather than putting the

DeLand Photo
Mrs. Joseph Olsen Jr.

piano completely off limits, however, encourage the toddler's interest by having him sit with you, where he can watch and listen as you play simple tunes for him," she suggested.

"Later on, big brother or sister will probably develop enough confidence and patience to do the same thing. And before you know it, the little one may be ready to pick out tunes on his own."

In some communities, it's possible to enroll pre-schoolers in regular musical kindergarten courses. Usually conducted by a local music dealer with the professional help of one or more competent music teachers, these programs develop and sustain the young child's interest in music by teaching the fundamentals in easy, entertaining ways.

"Though such courses don't teach children to play the piano, they do provide a firm foundation for those who go on to formal lessons," Miss Wagner reported.

Sew Your Own Originals by Saint Laurent

NEW YORK (AP) — Want a Saint Laurent dress without a Saint Laurent price tag? It's simple. Just sew your own.

Starting early next year, Yves Saint Laurent sew-to-wear fabric boutiques will be introduced in 100 department and specialty stores across the country.

Each boutique will include a variety of fabrics inspired by Saint Laurent. Ranging from prints to plaids, from silk to wool, the fabrics will sell for between $4 and $15 a yard.

Accompanying the fabrics will be a series of easy-to-follow silhouette patterns for day, evening and casual wear adapted from the designer originals.

The boutiques will be designed of steel and glass modules to fit with Saint Laurent's modern styles.

Christmas Place Cards Trim Table

Unusual and Attractive Place Cards for the Christmas dinner table are easily made with small tree ornaments. Stick a large, brightly colored gummed star at one end of a small white card. Mount the ornament, with metal cap removed, on the star with a dab of household cement. Insert a red or green candle in the neck opening. Write or print the name on the card in black or colored ink.

NEW YORK — Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, the nation's chief medical officer, has likened the threat of overpopulation to a "plague of locusts" and said, "It stands to reason," he said, "that people who have a chance to relax are going to be very different from rushers."

In an address to a meeting of the Planned Parenthood-World Population Council, Dr. Egeberg, assistant secretary for Health and Scientific Affairs, said he has a "feeling of urgency" about starting a discussion about overpopulation. # She Lets Him Down by Refusing to Move

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a middle-aged man who has just been offered the promotion he's been dreaming about. It means moving the family several hundred miles from here.

My wife refuses to move. She says the kids are doing well in school and moving would mean leaving friends they have grown up with. She is also close to her family.

What can a man do when he is faced with rebellion like this? My wife says, "Money isn't everything." I agree, but this isn't just money. It's satisfaction and progress. I'm 37 years old. If I turn down this promotion, I'll be stuck in this spot the rest of my life. Please help me. — Between the Devil and the Deep Blue Sea

Dear Between: If the devil wins this battle she is going to have a frustrated, unhappy husband on her hands for many years to come. Maybe forever. In my opinion, your wife is letting you down badly.

It is the woman's responsibility to make a home for her man wherever he can best pursue his profession or ply his trade. Remind her of those beautiful words: "Whither thou goest — I goest."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 31-year-old divorcee who has been going with a man 37. He is also divorced.

The problem I'm in love with him but he can't make up his mind about me. After ten months of being together almost every night, he still needs to play around with other women. I should tell you, in all landor, we are not engaged. We have talked of marriage but no commitment has been made. The problem boils down to this: I am satisfied with one man but he is not satisfied with one woman. Last night I told him he'd have to make up his mind. He called me "unreasonable" and "unfair." Am I? — A.T.K.

Dear A.T.K.: Inasmuch as you are not engaged and no commitment has been made, the gentleman has a right to do as he pleases. By the same token, since you have devoted yourself exclusively to him for ten months, you have the right to tell him either — or. Don't be surprised if it's "or." A man who cares deeply for a woman wants her for his wife does not play around, — unless there's something wrong with him. Have you considered that possibility?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you told a 16-year-old boy to join Alcoholics Anonymous. I didn't know A.A. took in kids

What are the requirements for joining A.A.?

Interested for a Reason
Dear In: The only requirement for membership in A.A. is the desire to stop drinking. There are no dues and no fees. A.A. is not allied with any sect, denomination, political party or organization. The primary purpose of A.A. is to help people stay sober and help other alcoholics achieve that goal.

Anyone interested in their literature should write to Alcoholics Anonymous, Box 459, Grand Central Post Office, New York, N. Y. 10017.

Another organization that does a tremendous job for alcoholics is: The National Council on Alcoholism, 2 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright 1969)

Hero Finds Only Way to Lose Game

A certain kind of man is accident prone. If there is only one fly in a huge dining room, it will surely dive into our hero's soup. If only one apple of a barrel is rotten, our hero will bite into it. If there is only one way to go down in the play of a bridge hand, our hero will find that line of play.

South won the first trick with the queen of hearts and saw that he had eight tricks in top cards. "All I have to do is find one of the black queens," South said to himself, and he set off galloping in the wrong direction. Declarer began by cashing the ace and king of spades in the hope that the queen would fall. It didn't. Then he led a club to the king and returned the ten of clubs for a finesse.

East won with the queen of clubs and thought of cashing the queen of spades but decided against it since he couldn't be sure that the hearts were ready to run. East led the seven of hearts, and West took four hearts to defeat the contract.

South congratulated himself on having played for the spades as well as the clubs; and he went on to the next hand full of joy at his command of the tools of the good bridge player. Actually he had gone out of his way to find a way to go down at a cold contract.

After winning the first heart-trick South should notice that he can afford to lose a trick to West, but not to East. He should therefore develop his ninth trick in clubs in such a way as to keep East out of the lead.

The method is simplicity itself. South leads a club to the ace and returns the jack of clubs for a finesse. As the cards lie, the finesse works, and South makes 10 tricks. If the finesse lost, South would still be sure of his game.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: S- A K J 3 H- 5 4 D- K 6 3 C- A J 6 5 What do you say?

Answer: Bid one club. If partner bids one of the red suits, you can bid one spade.

and you will have a normal rebid no matter what he bids over one club. There is therefore no need to open with 1-NT, which is mildly dangerous with a worth- less doubleton. If the spades and hearts were reversed, you would not have a normal rebid over a response of one spade. Some experts would therefore open with 1-NT despite the dangerous doubleton.

Woman's Club 'Walks Into Christmas'

BY MILLE LAIB
Post-Crescent Correspondent

Walk Into Christmas" was the theme of the first holiday tour of homes sponsored by the Clintonville Woman's Club. Members and guests visited four area homes Tuesday afternoon and the Eben room at the Finney Public Library.

Tourgoers paused after going through the recently remodeled 100-year-old Harold Heuer residence for coffee and homemade cookies, donated by club members.

Adding to tour variety was the apartment of Miss Gertrude Hoffman. Fairway which was decorated for the tour with traditional Christmas items.

Native arts and crafts collected during two trips around the world as well as some to Europe, South America, Mexico and western United States, were on display in the ranch style home of Misses Alma and Minna Schultz, 230 N. Main St.

Also on the tour was the contemporary home of the Don Heinisches which sits on a beautiful site on Pine Lake of Clover Leaf Lakes. The refreshment committee also was busy here.

The Eben Rexford Room, a replica of the study he had in his home at Shiocton, was highlighted by an old fashioned tree in one corner of the room. Mr. Rexford, a well-known floriculturist who also wrote poems and gospel hymns, is best remembered for his work, "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

Proceeds from the tour will be used for the Clintonville Woman's Club scholarship fund.

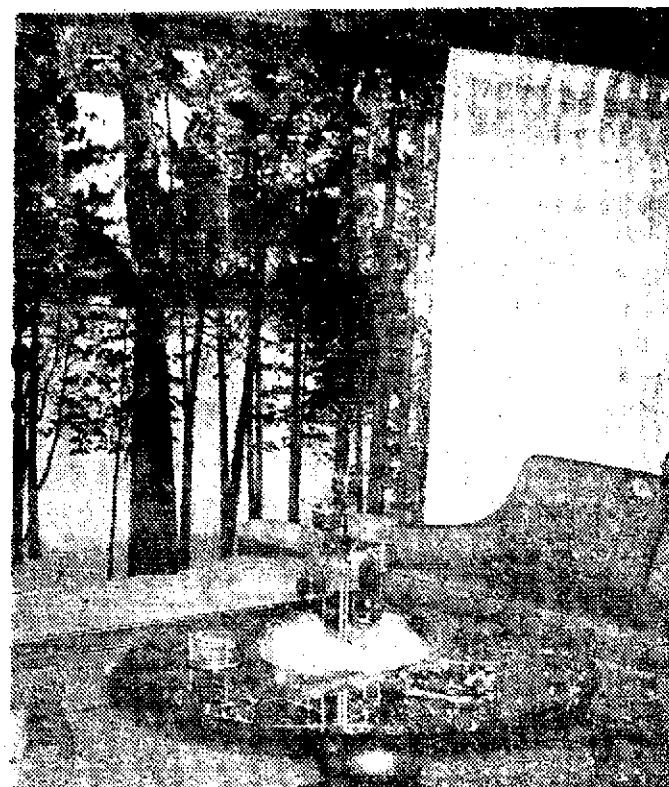

General chairman was Mrs. Clarence Quall. Refreshment

chairmen were Mrs. Lewis Thomas, Mrs. George McCauley and the Rev. Mrs. Arthur J. Snow. Although tickets were available from all club members, Mrs. Charles Middleton and Mrs. James Smiley handled sales at the Federal Savings and Loan Association office. On the program committee were Mrs. Donald Christensen, Mrs. Gordon Rindt, Mrs. F. M. Marshek, Mrs. Harold Danner and Mrs. Clarence Quall.

Match Care Qualities Of Thread to Fabric's

Most modern fabrics have been engineered for easy care and performance so the thread you use should have these same qualities, says Lenore Landry, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Consider how you will care for the garment. Select polyester or cotton-wrapped polyester core threads that are engineered for easy-care fabrics if you want the garment to require little or no ironing.

The cotton-wrapped polyester core threads, such as "Poly-Spun" and "Dual-Duty" are heat and shrink resistant. Used with a well adjusted sewing machine, these threads can produce smooth seams that don't pucker even after washing and drying.

Polyester core threads are now available in many colors. One manufacturer offers as many as 120 variations.

Dual-Duty Plus, a polyester core-cotton wrapped thread that is also mercerized, comes in about 180 colors.

If a low temperature setting is required on the easy care fabric, you can use an all polyester thread such as Poly-Bond or Trevira.

Poly-Bond consists of three tightly-twisted strands of polyester that are strong and stretch with the fabric. This is a thread specially suitable for hand or machine sewn knits, stretch, synthetic and permanent press fabrics.

Spun polyester threads are suited for use with permanent press, knit and stretch fabrics.

Ceremony Performed

Miss Susan Schultz became the bride of Eddie Wudstrack in a 1 p.m. ceremony Dec. 13 at St. John Lutheran Church, Town of Hermanfort.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Schultz, route 3, Shawano, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wudstrack, route 2, Tigerton.

Miss Lavonne Schultz, Appleton, attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lawrence Wudstrack, Miss Marsha Folkman, Mrs. Bill Whitehouse and Miss Eldora Wudstrack.

Performing the duties of best man for his brother was Lawrence Wudstrack, Caroline. Leo Wudstrack, Dale Schultz, William Whitehouse and Leroy Wudstrack served as groomsmen. Guests were seated by Robert Zahn and Otto Wudstrack.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception at the Caroline Ballroom.

The couple resides at Clintonville.

Woman's Club 'Walks Into Christmas'

BY MILLIE LAIB
Post-Crescent Correspondent

CLINTONVILLE — "A Walk Into Christmas" was the theme of the first holiday tour of homes sponsored by the Clintonville Woman's Club. Members and guests visited four area homes Tuesday afternoon and the Eben room at the Finney Public Library.

Tourgoers paused after going through the recently remodeled 100-year-old Harold Heuer residence for coffee and homemade cookies, donated by club members.

Adding to tour variety was the apartment of Miss Gertrude Hoffman. Fairway which was decorated with traditional Christmas items.

Native arts and crafts collected during two trips around the world as well as some to Europe, South America, Mexico and western United States, were on display in the ranch style home of Misses Alina and Minna Schultz, 230 N. Main St.

Also on the tour was the contemporary home of the Don Heinisches which sits on a beautiful site on Pine Lake of Clover Leaf Lakes. The refreshment committee also was busy here.

The Eben Rexford Room, a replica of the study he had in his home at Shiocton, was highlighted by an old fashioned tree in one corner of the room. Mr. Rexford, a well-known floriculturist who also wrote poems and gospel hymns, is best remembered for his work, "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

Proceeds from the tour will be used for the Clintonville Woman's Club scholarship fund.

General chairman was Mrs. Clarence Quall. Refreshment

chairmen were Mrs. Lewis Thomas, Mrs. George McCauley and the Rev. Mrs. Arthur J. Snow. Although tickets were available from all club members, Mrs. Charles Middleton and Mrs. James Smiley handled sales at the Federal Savings and Loan Association office. On the program committee were Mrs. Donald Christensen, Mrs. Gordon Rindt, Mrs. F. M. Marshek, Mrs. Harold Danner and Mrs. Clarence Quall.

These 100 per cent polyester threads are available in many colors.

In hand sewing, thread the needle directly off the spool to avoid untwisting the thread and causing knots. Determine how much thread you'll need — about 18 to 20 inches is best. Thread your needle, cut the thread from the spool and make a knot at the end just cut.

Be sure the needle eye is large enough to accommodate the size of thread selected so it easily slips through the needle.

Send Your Physician That Christmas Card

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: What do doctors think about getting Christmas cards from patients? Our friendly doctor has never sent us one. Is this because doctors consider the custom too personal? — N. N.

No, I don't think doctors consider it "too personal." I don't. I'm pleased when patients think enough of me to send a card. Most doctors are. I am pleased when, as happens, I get cards from readers I don't know, but by reading the column they feel that they know me. It's good for my ego as I get to wondering whether I'm really printing the things readers want to know.

But when it comes to sending cards, that raises problems. Almost any physician has some hundreds of patients. It is not unusual to have 1,000 or even far more names in the files.

Can you send cards to some without seeming to have "favorite patients" at the expense of others? Will some who don't get cards feel hurt? How many on your list aren't your patients? Moved away? Changed doctors? You never know.

How many will feel, if they get a card, that they are under some compulsion to send one in return? How many will resent it? How many (few, perhaps, but I know some) just don't believe, for one reason or another, in exchanging cards?

I can also hear office nurses and secretaries everywhere asking, with justice, "Just how do we find the time to send out a thousand cards?"

So I have never sent cards to patients, but have tried to thank those who sent cards to me the next time they came in. I don't, in fact, know a doctor who sends out cards to patients, although most send cards, like anyone else, to relatives, other doctors, and friends.

Please don't feel hurt because your "friendly doctor" doesn't send a card, but if you feel like sending him one, do so. He'll appreciate it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My sister uses a "black light" in her child's room as a night light. Can this be injurious to the child's eyes? — Mrs. J. P.

I couldn't answer positively without knowing more about the light, because "black light" is ultra-violet. There are different types of this, long-wave and short-wave. The short-wave has to be handled with care because it can damage the eyes and can — like sunlight — burn. That's why "sun lamps" come equipped with goggles and instructions for using them.

Without being very sure of the precise type of black light in use, I certainly would play safe and employ some other kind. There are all sorts of shaded night lights, glowing panels, and such that would certainly be safe. Why take any chance at all?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have diverticulitis and have a lot of bowel trouble. I am constipated much of the time. Just now I am having an attack of diarrhea. Could diverticulitis cause this? — I. R.

Yes, a flare up of diverticulitis can cause diarrhea. However, report this to your physician. Changes in bowel habits warrant investigation with X-ray of the colon to determine whether any complications are arising from the diverticulitis.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To become more familiar with the subject, write for my booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Kempen Paces Non-League Success

Ghosts Hand Fond du Lac 88-72 Loss

BY ED VAN BERKEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KAUKAUNA — The Kaukauna Galloping Ghosts were as hot as the proverbial kitchen stove here Tuesday night as they rolled to a convincing, 88-72, win over Fond du Lac in a non-conference tilt.

Kaukauna sank 10 of 25 floor shots in the opening frame, eight of 15 in the second, 10 of 18 in the third and eight of 14 in the final period. The invaders were equally adept, but had fewer shots. Fond du Lac opened with eight of 15, came through with 7 of 14 in the second period, fell to five of 14 in the third and concluded with nine of 13.

The Ghosts jumped off to an early lead and were never headed, although the invaders closed to within two points several times in the opening period. The hosts held a slim, 25-23, first period advantage, a diversified scoring attack helping to offset the hot hand of Doug West who finished as top scorer with 33 points.

Cracks Defense

Fond du Lac was playing without its top scorer, Bill Olson, and showed a tough zone defense which Kaukauna managed to crack on the outside shooting of Al Borchardt, and Leon Franzke and some fancy under-the-boards shooting by Jack Kempen, who did most of the rebounding for the Ghosts besides setting the scoring pace.

The two teams battled on near even terms throughout the second period which saw the Ghosts lead, 43-38, at halftime.

Borchardt, Mark Kobin and Lac 22 points in the wild final period, but many of the Ghosts for the Ghosts in the third period to pull the winners to a 13-point advantage, but two jumpers by West out the margin back to nine. Dave Deering, subbing for Karl Mueller who was in foul trouble, found the range with two quick outside shots to widen the margin and a strong finish enabled Kaukauna to hold a 64-50 three-quarter lead.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five Green Bay Packers have been chosen to the West squad for the Pro Bowl football game Jan. 18.

They are wide receiver Carroll Dale, tackle Gale Gillingham, linebacker Dave Robinson, corner back Bob Jeter and safety Willie Wood.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterbacks Roman Gabriel of Los Angeles and Joe Kapp of Minnesota today were named to guide the West against the East in the 20th annual Pro Bowl

Memorial Coliseum. Eight Minnesota Vikings and seven Rams were selected on the 34-man team by National Football League coaches and the game management. Gabriel, recently voted by The Associated Press as Most Valuable Player in the NFL, will be making his third straight appearance in the Pro Bowl. He relieved Earl Morrall of Baltimore last year and led the West to a 10-7 victory. This will be Kapp's first ap-

The Rams brought along a variety of cold weather equipment, including gloves, hand warmers, special shoes and heat blowers. Grant said the Vikings will not wear gloves, but have various shoes for a bad field.

Each club plans to work out doors this week. The Rams are headquartered at Macalester College in St. Paul. The Vikings are based at the University of Minnesota.

Badger '6' Whips MSU To Win Title

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Wisconsin scored a pair of goals in each period Tuesday night for a 6-3 victory over Michigan State in the title match of the Big Ten ice hockey tournament.

Badger goalie Wayne Thomas made 43 saves, and teammates Dick Klipsic and Bob Poffenroth each scored two goals.

Jim Johnson and Murray Heatley put in Wisconsin's other tallies.

Badger defenseman John Jagger was voted the most valuable performer in the three-day tournament.

Michigan took a 4-0 lead en route to a 6-1 victory over Minnesota for third place.

Phil Bengtson Fractures Hip

GREEN BAY — Phil Bengtson, Packer head coach and general manager, will be spending Christmas at St. Vincent Hospital.

Bengtson fell down and broke his right hip Tuesday night while loading a Christmas gift for his wife into the rear of his car at the Greyhound bus station. He said he tripped over a low object, probably a crate, while moving backward toward the car.

Dr. E. S. Brusky, a Packer team physician, said Bengtson will be hospitalized for a minimum of two weeks. There was no indication how long it will be before he can expect to be walking again.

Appleton Xavier's comebacking Hawks continued their long-shot bid to stretch their unprecedented Fox Valley Catholic Conference basketball title reign to nine years by turning back Little Chute St. John, 86-66, here Tuesday night.

The defending champion contention after dropping their initial three league starts, posted their third successive win to gain the .500 level and to remain two games behind pacesetter De Pere Pennings.

The Fox Cities rivals went at it hammer and tongs in a press-and-run spectacle that saw 54 fouls whistled and had more than a little flavor of football. Four Chute starters fouled out, and one Hawk was excused early.

The Hawks never trailed as they beat St. John for the 17th consecutive time and built their over-all season record to 5-4. St. John, a dangerous quintet that has already snuffed such favorites as Green Bay Premontre and Manitowish Roncalli, slipped to a 3-4 conference record. Overall, the Dutchmen are Joe DeNoble, named Xavier to its highest total under new coach Jerry Schmidt.

In the first half, the Chutes clamped down on DeNoble and held him to two points. But, after intermission, the free-wheeling junior was uncontrollable as he sank seven of 16 floor shots and 10 of 14 free throws for 23 additional points. Whenever DeNoble drove for the basket, almost invariably he either connected or drew a 2-shot foul.

Strong rebounder Mark Collar and Bill Weggel, who is showing steady improvement after an early-season leg ailment, both manufactured 15-point totals for Xavier. Collar sank seven of eight from the free throw line. Bob Heideman came off the bench to add 10 points to the Hawk total.

Neenah Whips GBW, 78-60; Wildcats Forfeit 3 Victories

GREEN BAY — It isn't easy once record heading into Tuesday night's home encounter with the fact his team just lost four Neenah, found out late Tuesday games in one day, but that's afternoon it had to forfeit all what Green Bay West's first-year mentor Bill Kuse will be pondering today.

West, apparent possessor of a RORS, ROCKETS, HAWKS, 448 on the Wildcat roster.

Bob Kimble, a 6-3 senior who was GBW's leading rebounder and second-leading scorer, was found to have already used up his eight semesters of eligibility under WIAA rules and therefore had been compelling illegally.

Pulls Away in Final Period for 60-40 Victory

DE PERE — Fox Valley Catholic Conference-leading De Pere Pennings pulled away in the final quarter to thwart Menasha St. Mary's basketball upset bid, 60-40, here Tuesday night.

Though the Squires led all the way, they had trouble shaking off the determined Zephyrs until the closing stanza. St. Mary cut the Pennings lead to six points (36-30) late in the third quarter and trailed by only eight (40-32) going into the final period.

But Pennings outscored the Zephyrs, 20 to 8, in the final quarter to boost its league record to 5-1 and over-all standard to 8-1.

Mike LaPlante and Chuck Albers provided the bulk of the Pennings points, with 20 and 19, respectively. Albers sank a pair of outside shots to help the Squires out of danger after St. Mary had pulled to within six points in the third quarter.

The pace-maker for the Zephyrs was sophomore Tom Schulz, with 11 points. Chuck Johnson was next in line, with seven.

Limited to a 39-35 edge after the first two periods, Appleton West's explosive Terrors solved a pesky Oshkosh defense with some racehorse basketball in the second half to tomahawk the Indians, 88-41, and slay unbeaten at Seims Gym Tuesday night.

In tracking up their seventh straight Fox River Valley Conference win and eighth victory overall, coach Dick Emanuel's charges shot a dazzling 59 per cent from the floor (36-for-61) and streaked to their highest point total of the season.

The 88 points, in fact, ranks as the best offensive display by a Terror squad since the 1964-65 aggregate set an all-time school record of 104 points against Green Bay Southwest.

3 Full Quarters

"We ran like we think we should be able to run," Emanuel beamed in the locker room afterward in assessing his team's effort. "We moved the ball more consistently than before — three full quarters."

The 17-year Terror mentor had plenty of praise for Oshkosh, which early in the second period held an 8-point advantage and was not out of the ballgame until the final quarters. West held a 61-49 cushion at the end of the third stanza and then padded it with a 27-12 blitz in the final eight minutes.

"We have to take our hats off to Oshkosh," Emanuel remarked, "they (the Indians) were real quick and played good aggressive defense. We had to play our best ballgame to win."

Particularly pleasing to Emanuel was the balanced scoring attack the Terrors mounted. Four players hit in double figures, led by guard Rich Reitzner's 23 points. Tim Moriarty was close back with 20

Commander at My Lai Queried

Military Panel Trying to Learn Background of Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marine general who once commanded all U.S. forces in the My Lai area of Vietnam has appeared before a military panel trying to determine if the Army's initial investigation was a whitewash.

Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman emerged from a 40-minute session with the board Monday and left the Pentagon without talking to newsmen.

He is the highest-ranking officer to be called before the panel and, at the time of the incident, more than 18 months ago, was commander of Army and Marine forces in the I Corps area of South Vietnam. Cushman now is deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The board, headed by Lt. Gen. William Peers, is attempting to determine why an Army investigation shortly after the incident was fruitless in light of recently published eyewitness accounts of killing of unarmed civilians in the village.

A Pentagon investigation of the incident a year later has resulted in charges against a lieutenant and a sergeant.

The Army probe of its initial investigation, a separate effort, will take the panel members to Vietnam early next year.

Johnson Considered Quitting Earlier, Says Wife's Former Aide

NEW YORK (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson's former press secretary says Lyndon B. Johnson thought of quitting the presidency in 1964 and 1965.

"He toyed with quitting even before the 1964 convention in Atlantic City," the former press secretary, Liz Carpenter, says in an excerpt from her autobiography in the January issue of McCall's Magazine.

"Again in 1965, when an operation gave him time to brood, he wanted to draw up papers of resignation."

Johnson's announcement that he would not accept another term was made March 31, 1968.

Former Nun Named to Head Hunter College

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Greennan Wexler, a former nun who was freed from her vows and married, has been appointed by the Board of Higher Education as head of Hunter College.

A board spokesman said Mrs. Wexler, former head of Webster College in Webster Groves, Mo., received a unanimous vote at a meeting Monday night.

Dr. Robert D. Cross, who was president of Hunter, left last July to become president of Swarthmore College.

North-South Clash Will Match Phipps Against Bradshaw

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Mike Phipps and Terry Bradshaw, two of college football's finest senior quarterbacks, will be in the Christmas Day spotlight at Miami, Fla., as the North-South All-Star Game ushers in a holiday season bowl bash.

Professional bird-dogs, including Chicago Bears Coach Jim Dooley, will be on hand at the Orange Bowl, where Phipps, running mate, Bob Anderson of Colorado, and San Diego State quarterback Dennis Shaw, the nation's total offense leader, are the big men for a powerful West squad.

Big 10 Stars

Sorenson on South

Dick Sorenson, former Menasha High School grid star who was the University of Miami's most valuable player the past season, will play for the South team against the North in the Orange Bowl Christmas Day.

Sorenson, a linebacker, will wear No. 34.

Purdue's All-American Signal caller, directs the North attack against a South squad led by Little All-American Bradshaw of Louisiana Tech.

A top-flight quarterback reportedly is top priority for the Bears, who are to flip a coin with the Pittsburgh Steelers to determine who picks first in the upcoming pro draft.

The North-South contest, to be televised nationally (ABC-TV, 3:30 p.m. CST), kicks off a full weekend of post-season activity.

Toledo's unbeaten Mid-American Conference champs tangle with Davidson, the Southern Conference kingpin, Friday night in the Orlando, Fla., Tangerine Bowl. There are three games set for Saturday—the East-West Shrine Classic at Palo Alto, Calif., the Blue-Gray clash at Montgomery, Ala., and the Jacksonville, Fla., Gator Bowl scrap between Tennessee and Florida.

Peach Bowl Fees — South Carolina and West Virginia collide in the Peach Bowl at Atlanta next Tuesday and the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl attraction on New Year's Eve pits hometown favorite Houston against Auburn, one of the Southeastern Conference power teams.

On Jan. 1, Notre Dame makes its first bowl appearance in 45 years against No. 1 ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl, Michigan takes on Southern California in the Rose Bowl, second-ranked Penn State meets Missouri in the Orange Bowl and Mississippi tackles Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl.

After Phipps, the Heisman Trophy runner-up, and Bradshaw, blue chip quarterback in the small college ranks, go at each other at Miami Thursday, the spotlight shifts to Saturday's East-West meeting.

Heisman winner Steve Owens

Quarterback Harry Gonso and running back John Isenbarger, both of Indiana, and All-American fullback Jim Otis of Ohio State lead the East stars in the annual charity clash (ABC-TV, 4:30 p.m. EST).

The devastating sophomore aerial combination of John Reaves and Carlos Alvarez will be Florida's big weapon against the once-beaten Vols' rugged defensive unit, keyed by All-American linebacker Steve Kimer, in the Gator Bowl (NBC-TV, Noon-EST).

Gordon Slade, a less heralded quarterback standout with a 61 per cent completion mark, is Davidson's chief hope to engineer a Tangerine Bowl upset over Toledo, which finished the regular season at 10-0—joining Texas, Penn State and San Diego State as the only major teams with perfect regular season marks.

Whitlinger Cops Third Match in Orange Bowl

MIAMI, Fla. — Third-seeded John Whitlinger of Neenah, Wis., captured his third victory Tuesday in the Orange Bowl Junior Tennis Tournament.

Whitlinger, the 15-year-old Wisconsin prep champion last year as a freshman, whipped Randy Kennedy of Washington, D.C., 6-2, 6-0.

Whitlinger is also competing in the doubles competition, where he and partner Phil Joffey of North Miami Beach are seeded fifth.

They Won't Beat Us Twice, Says Deacon Jones

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The firing of George Allen as coach of the Los Angeles Rams on the day after Christmas, the emotional reaction of "we'll quit," from a dozen players and the eventual rehiring of Allen must be considered in any analysis of the 1969 Rams.

The Rams came out blazing and won 11 in a row before they ran into Minnesota, Dec. 7 and then the air went out of the balloon. It remains to be seen if Allen can rekindle the spark he'll need it in Minnesota in time for the big showdown with the Vikings in the snow country Saturday.

Deacon Jones, one of the men who backed Allen last winter, summed up the Rams' feelings after their upset loss, 20-13, to Minnesota, Dec. 7.

We'll Be Ready — "It won't make any difference if there are 50 inches of snow on the ground," he said. "The loss may have been a blessing. We'll be ready emotionally next time. There is no way they're going to beat us twice."

Roman Gabriel, the man who must make the attack go, has said of Allen, "He has been for the players all the time. He got a lot of things just to make the players happy because that's what is important. You can't win without a happy team."

Some call the Rams a "just enough" team, meaning that they always keep a little in reserve. During their 11-game win streak they usually won each Sunday by about 10 points.

Of the four clubs in the National Football League playoffs, the Rams are the only team that throws the ball more often than it runs. Opponents also have found it a little easier to throw against them than run although that Fearsome Foursome puts tremendous pressure on the passer.

Most Valuable — Gabriel the Most Valuable Player in the NFL this season, is a 6-foot-4 220-pound strong boy who has the build to stand in there against the rush and unload the ball with the ability to pick up vital yardage on his own.

The performance of Gabriel depends on the success the offensive line has in standing off the Vikings' Purple Gang.

Charlie Cowan moved over from right tackle to left to make room for Bob Brown, the giant All-League tackle who was acquired from Philadelphia last summer. They are an outstanding pair of tackles.

If there is a crack in the line it could be at right guard where Mike LaHood, a rookie from Wyoming who spent last year in the service, has taken over for Joe Scibelli, lost due to knee surgery. Scibelli was a team leader and his loss in the Nov. 2 Atlanta game was a bitter blow.

Ground Game Better — Although the Rams do go to the pass more than the run, their ground game has improved immeasurably by the addition of rookie Larry Smith, their No. 1 draft choice from Florida, and the comeback of Les Josephson from a torn Achilles tendon that put him out of action in 1968.

Smith is an excellent pass receiver, a fine blocker and enough speed to run the sweeps. He has been among the top dozen rushers most of the year. Smith also throws the option pass.

Tommy Mason, still a threat at 30 despite his taped-up knees, has scored both as a receiver and a runner in relief of Josephson and sprinter Willie Ellison is a breakaway threat behind Smith.

Favorite Targets — Gabriel's favorite targets are Jack Snow and Wendell Tucker, who have scored both as receivers and a runner in relief of Josephson and sprinter Willie Ellison is a breakaway threat behind Smith.

Tucker, a relatively obscure Ram for two years, has taken over the job of Bernie Casey, who retired. When Coach Allen goes to his two-tight end offense on short yardage, Bob Klein, a No. 1 draftee from Southern California, teams with Truax.

The Rams usually are not spectacular on offense but don't make many mistakes and like to shift to a field goal try by Bruce Gossett when a defense stiffens. At times Gabriel puts Smith in the slot to get four receivers and keeps only Josephson back to help with the pass blocking.

The Fearsome Foursome of old has changed personnel but Deacon Jones and Merlin Olsen remain on the left side of that strong defensive line. Rosey Grier is long gone and Roger Brown, his successor, has been in and out due to injuries.

Former Safety for Longhorns Gets Dome Tour, Scoreboard Salute

HOUSTON (AP) — "I hope I'm ready, because I know the team will be ready. I'm the only one worrying about getting ready," Freddie Joe Steinmark said Tuesday in the Astrodome.

He was referring to the University of Texas Longhorns, who face Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day.

The junior safety from Denver, Colo., who played on that Longhorn team toured the Astrodome 11 days after his left leg was amputated at the hip because of bone cancer.

It was his first news conference since the surgery at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute. The Astrodome tour and a visit to the Houston zoo earlier Tuesday were part of his therapy on learning to use crutches.

Fit Leg Monday

"They'll start fitting my new leg next Monday," the 20-year-old liberal arts student said. "After that it all depends on how fast they can make the leg and how fast I can learn to use it."

One highlight of the tour was the $2 million Astrodome scoreboard, which went through its spectacular display usually reserved for Houston Home runs and victories.

"The Astrodome salutes Freddie Steinmark—the number one team's number one guy," it read and a smile grew broader across Steinmark's face.

He said he's being discharged from the hospital today in time to spend Christmas with his family.

"I plan to be in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day and greet the team as they come on the field to play Notre Dame," he said. Steinmark was issued the first 1969 Cotton Bowl pass.

He also hopes to be in Honolulu for the Hula Bowl Jan. 10 and then in Austin for the team banquet Jan. 12.

"The doctors of course have given me a lot of help and I'm very grateful," he said.

"They've been good to me but haven't pulled any punches."

Steinmark also was grateful for the reception he has received because of his operation.

"I really didn't know how great people could be," he said, mentioning some of the several hundred gifts and get-well messages he's received from people across the nation and around the world.

One man sent a gold crucifix that had been a family heirloom. Then there was a phone call from President Nixon, nearly illegible letters from small children, assorted amounts of money, prayers, flowers, candy and other items.

Has Lost Weight

Steinmark said because of the operation he still does not have a good appetite, has lost weight and has a little trouble sleeping.

Hospital officials said they believe they removed all of the localized cancer when they took off the leg. They are watching for any signs that the malignancy has spread to any other area.

"I'm planning to resume my studies with the start of second semester the first week in February and won't have any trouble catching up," Steinmark said. "Then I hope later to go to law school."

"I don't look upon what has happened as a defeat," he said. "I only look at it as a meaning I have to go forward."

man, is the right tackle and Diron Talbert, a third year man, is the right end. Lamar Lundy, the regular right end until his cartilage operation last year, has come back recently but Talbert probably will start. Brown gets almost as much time as Bacon at the tackle spot.

Maxie Baughan, the former Philadelphia Eagle, calls the defensive signals as right linebacker. Jack Pardee still is going strong at the left side and Doug Woodlief moved into the middle linebacker job and took over after Myron Pottius was hurt in an auto accident. Woodlief has been extra active in pass coverage.

Deep Defense

Eddie Meadow, the 32-year-old All-League free safety, is the top man in the Rams' deep defense. He also holds for Gossett on field goals and is not beyond picking up the ball and running for a first down.

Clancy Williams is the left cornerback but Allen has made a change at the right side. Jim Nettles, former Eagle, has taken over for Ron Smith, who has been playing strong safety since Richie Petitbon, ex-Chicago Bear, was sidelined by a kidney ailment. Petitbon probably will be back for the Vikings but Nettles may stay on the corner.

Pat Studstill, the veteran wide receiver is a spare at that job but the regular punter averaging over 40 yards a kick.

Texas Amputee Fred Steinmark paid his first visit to the Astrodome Tuesday, making his way around on crutches. Steinmark, starting safety for the No. 1-ranked University of Texas football team before a recent operation, vowed he would be in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day to cheer on his teammates. "It won't make any difference if there are 50 inches of snow on the ground," he said. "The loss may have been a blessing. We'll be ready emotionally next time. There is no way they're going to beat us twice."

Roman Gabriel, the man who must make the attack go, has said of Allen, "He has been for the players all the time. He got a lot of things just to make the players happy because that's what is important. You can't win without a happy team."

Some call the Rams a "just enough" team, meaning that they always keep a little in reserve. During their 11-game win streak they usually won each Sunday by about 10 points.

Of the four clubs in the National Football League playoffs, the Rams are the only team that throws the ball more often than it runs. Opponents also have found it a little easier to throw against them than run although that Fearsome Foursome puts tremendous pressure on the passer.

Most Valuable — Gabriel the Most Valuable Player in the NFL this season, is a 6-foot-4 220-pound strong boy who has the build to stand in there against the rush and unload the ball with the ability to pick up vital yardage on his own.

The performance of Gabriel depends on the success the offensive line has in standing off the Vikings' Purple Gang.

Charlie Cowan moved over from right tackle to left to make room for Bob Brown, the giant All-League tackle who was acquired from Philadelphia last summer. They are an outstanding

Colorado State Hires ND Aide, Wampler, Grid Coach

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—By hiring an aide of Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian to head its football program, Colorado State University seems to be stressing that no de-emphasis of football is contemplated at the northern Colorado school.

Jerry Wampler, 38, an assistant on the Irish staff for four seasons, was announced Tuesday as the new head coach of the Rams.

During the search for a new

Hawks Defeat St. John '5'

Mike Loe, each poured in 15 points to pace the Avitus Rippers as Colorado State University-coached Chuters. Loe canned six of 10 from the foul line. He succeeds Mike Lude who coached at CSU for eight seasons, then was informed that his contract would not be renewed.

The Rams failed to win a conference game and lost six of their 10 contests.

Wampler played at Miami (Ohio) when Parseghian was coaching there and joined the Notre Dame staff after coaching stints at Miami and Presbyterian College of South Carolina as well as at two Ohio high schools.

Moore said the appointment is a fine Christmas present for the university and for football fans in Colorado.

He said Wampler's contract is for more than one year. He declined to say how many years it covers or to disclose a salary figure.

Behind by 11 (12-10) in the waning moments of the quarter, the Chuters unleashed the first of several gap-narrowing operations. Huiting scored the final three points of the first quarter — to reduce the Xavier lead to 21-13. And, Loe tallied the first three points of the second stanza, to bring the Chuters within five (21-16). But Collar restored half the lead with a 3-point play.

14-Point Edge

Heideman sparked a Xavier flurry late in the second quarter to boost a 7-point edge (28-21) to 14 (37-23) — the biggest lead of the initial 16 minutes of action.

That margin remained pretty much intact for the first half of the third quarter. Then, with the Chuters trailing by 14 (42-28) the Chuters came on again with seven straight points (four of them by Gary VandeHey), and the Hawk lead was down to 42-35.

Just when the St. John momentum seemed to be well started, over-zealous defensive play by the Chuters enabled Xavier to regain control. DeNoble cashed in on St. John for four straight free throws and Collar hit one, to hike the lead to 12 (47-35). At the end of the first period, Xavier led by 11 (52-41).

The final quarter proved by far the most prolific for both teams. The Hawks pulled out of reach by scoring 10 points in the first 70 seconds of the period — with DeNoble and Tom Harris fueling the drive — to expand the lead to 19 points (62-43). Xavier, which lost a couple of early games with last quarter fade-outs, went on to count 34 in the last stanza last night. St. John produced 25 points in the final, eight minutes.

Xavier fired field goals at an accuracy rate of 38.2 per cent (26 of 68). St. John sank 32.8 per cent (21 of 64). Both were impressive from the free throw line, with the Hawks sinking 34 of 47 and the Chuters 24 of 34.

GREEN BAY. The Packers offense, as the faithful are aware, was not overly productive in 1969.

Paradoxically enough, however, there were some individual records which ranked among the best of the season in the National Football League.

Most notable of these, according to final figures released today, was authored by quarterback Don Horn. Largely by dint of his 410-yard passing performance against the St. Louis Cardinals, an all-time Packers single game record, Horn finished with the league's best average gain per pass, 8.96 yards.

The 24-year-old signal caller finished 11th in the league overall, on 896 completions in 68 attempts, a 53.0 percentage, for 1,505 yards and 11 touchdowns, with 11 interceptions.

Although hampered by injuries in the last half of the season, the most recent of Wildcats comeback, however, to take a 53-46 edge going into the final stanza. Arpin sank a 15-footer at the buzzer to give Neenah its 7-point bulge.

6 Straight Points

The invaders then put the game on ice when they reeled off six straight points at the start of the fourth quarter on Rick Matson's tip-in. Arpin's 10-foot jumper, and a layin by Block. A Neenah full-court press; aided in the spurt and throughout the last period.

From that point, Neenah maintained a comfortable lead until with a minute left, it held its biggest margin of 19 points at 77-58. A few moments earlier, West was within 13 at 71-58, but the Rockets got successive buckets from Arpin. Ralph Bunke, and Doug Angerer to widen the gap.

Green Bay West chances were hurt when it lost two key ball-handlers, Dave Peot and Bruce Adams, on fouls. Peot left with 5 1/2 minutes left in the third quarter, and Adams sat down with 4 1/2 minutes to go in the last period.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Tuesday that Spec. 4 Thomas L. Anderson, husband of Mrs. Doreen L. Anderson, route 2, La Crosse, Wis., has been killed in action in Vietnam.

Even the Unlucky Charlie Brown is a winner at Christmas time. The whole "Peanuts" gang, with Snoopy giving up his World War I biplane for a sleigh in honor of the season, get together in an outdoor display at the Daniel McCarthy residence, 41 Torrey St., Clintonville. The wish for their leader to have a "Merry Christmas" also is for any passers-by who happen to view the scene. (Laib Photo)

Residential Displays Top Yule Decorations Picked at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Residential outdoor displays were judged Tuesday night in the annual contest sponsored by the Clintonville Electric Utility.

Displays were judged in two categories and cash prizes of $20, $15, $10 and $5 for first, second, third and fourth places, respectively, awarded in each category. Judges were Mrs. Jackson McConley Sr., Mrs. Helen Waalkens and Roger Metzger. Their selections were announced by John Schroeder, chairman of the contest for the utility.

Winners for the most effective

Larson Quits Atlas Firm Resigns Because of Health; Will Stay In Consulting Role

CLINTONVILLE — Lowell A. Larson will resign as president of Atlas Conveyor Co., effective Dec. 31 for health reasons. He will continue with Atlas as a part time consultant.

In the fall of 1963, Larson became president of Atlas after purchasing a controlling interest in the firm. In August, 1967, Nordberg Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee, purchased Atlas.

George G. Zachow, vice president, will assume full responsibility for the general management and administration of Atlas. Zachow, 45, is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin with a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering and a degree in business administration. He joined Atlas Conveyor in 1952, and since then has been in sales, engineering, purchasing, advertising, accounting, personnel and other functions.

The announcement was made by William M. Wallace, vice president, Product Divisions Group, Nordberg Manufacturing Co.

Amherst Church Gives Approval To Women Voters

AMHERST — Women will be allowed to vote and hold office in St. Paul Lutheran Church, according to a recent decision of the congregation.

The action came after a resolution of the convention of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod held during the summer in Denver. It included lowering the voting age to 18.

Officers elected were Raymond Toftum, secretary; Eddie Pask, financial secretary; Richard Lutz, treasurer; Victor Peters, elder, and Elmer Benson, trustee.

Officers whose terms hold over are Lester Ristow, president; Albert Dusel, vice president; Lloyd Jurgenson and Albert Dusel, elders, and Arleigh Sultheimer and Harry Dusel, trustees.

Other action at the annual church meeting included accepting the declaration of fellowship by the Missouri Synod with the American Lutheran Church.

use of properties in a display were Mrs. Clifford Rafoth, 55 Brent St., first; Don Pringnitz, 100 Brix St., second; Mike Loberg, 25-18th St., third; and Basil Arvey, 160 Garfield Ave., fourth. Honorable mention went to Marlowe Peters, 241 S. Main St.; Lloyd Eggleston, 161 Harriet St.; Reuben Nelson, 58 Lincoln Ave., and Norman Olson, Seventh Street.

Winners for the most effective use of lighting in a display were Harold Bruemmer, 31 Park St., first; Dr. Charles Laux, 45-19th St., second; George Zachow, 75-18th St., third, and Carl Hensel, 161 N. Main St., fourth. Honorable mention went to Aaron Jirschele, 97-11th St.; Tony Henn, 105 Brix St.; Donald Moldenhauer, 96-8th St.; Kenneth Luecke, Pine Street, and Arthur Hill, 137 N. 12th St.

CLINTONVILLE — A New Year's Eve party for members and guests will be held at the Clintonville Riverside Golf clubhouse. The party will be limited to 100 persons.

There will be dinner, favors, dancing, and a variety of refreshments. Tickets are $7.50 per person.

CLINTONVILLE — The Rotary Club met Monday noon at the Marston Hotel for its regular weekly luncheon meeting.

George McCauley was the program chairman and introduced William Hull of Employers Mutual Insurance Co., Wausau. Hull showed a film made at Minocqua on community safety and explained what that community had done about it.

Amherst Ups Tax Rate by $1.79 for '70

AMHERST — Budget increases of about $2,700 will result in a tax rate hike of $1.79 per $1,000 assessed valuation in the village.

The Village Board has set the tax rate at $33.95 per $1,000 assessed valuation required for a levy of $22,000.

Revenue other than property will bring in $25,800 to make up the $47,800 budget set up for 1970. Last year's budget was $45,011.

General government for this year will be budgeted for $8,555 as compared to $8,581 for 1969; protection of person and property, $9,150 and $5,784 health and sanitation, $5,850 and $4,599; roads and streets, $13,340 and $13,820; education and recreation, $3,015 and $1,250; relief, $500 and $78; unclassified, $2,250 and $2,602; payment of loans, $5,045 and $7,070.

Tax Bills Set For Grand Chute

Tax bills for residents of the Town of Grand Chute will be mailed the weekend after Christmas, according to Town Treasurer Eugene Paltzer.

Bills must be paid in installments at the Outagamie County Courthouse by Feb. 28, Paltzer said, with the balance due July 31.

Slush Ice Causes Waupaca Flooding

WAUPACA — Slush ice lined the bottom of the Waupaca River Monday night and sent the waters rushing over a new course. Flooding some basements and threatening others between the dam on Water Street and the Fallgatter dam on Shearer Street.

Where the river bends behind the stores in the 200 block of Main Street, truckloads of sand and rock were hauled in Tuesday in an attempt to contain the current which flooded the playground behind the old City Hall. The temporary levees were washed away almost as swiftly as they were built.

New Courses Set For Winter Term At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The evening school program schedule of Fox Valley Technical Center here for the winter quarter will include some new classes.

Defensive driving and ground school for pilots are two of the new courses listed. Others include a five-week course in lingerie sewing and regular length courses in ceramics and creative crafts.

The courses were set up at a meeting between Allen Matson, local supervisor, and Milton Ness, Fox Valley Technical Institute-Appleton extension supervisor.

Registrations will take place at the Clintonville Senior High school office during the day Jan. 5 through Jan. 9. Classes begin Jan. 12.

Further information concerning evening school offerings may be obtained from Matson at the senior high school.

Council Formed to Push For Outagamie Executive Bubolz, Rogers, Froehlich Head Group

An "Outagamie County Citizens for Good Government" issue. Resolutions pertaining to the Jan. 13 board meeting to Government Council's position "Council" has been formed to both forms of executive. However, the group has set a deadline of Feb. 6 to acquire the copy of the petition also is elected county executive for the at its December session and needed signers to force either included.

Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, is chairman; State Rep. William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, is vice chairman, and Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, is secretary-treasurer.

Bubolz said that the public would be asked to join the council by circulating petitions and obtaining at least 100 signatures each.

"We hope to organize a council of no less than 70 people," Bubolz said.

If they would succeed in having 70 people each obtain 100 signatures, the proponents of an elected county executive would exceed the requirement of having 6,333 signatures to force a referendum on the subject.

In conjunction with the drive, a forum will be held at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 12 at the Home Mutual Insurance Co. building on Foster Avenue on the elected executive versus appointed administrator issue.

Bubolz said that Milwaukee County Executive John Doyle would discuss his job and answer questions. He added that they hoped to provide a pro and con discussion.

The forum will be jointly sponsored by the Good Government Council and the Appleton Jaycees, Bubolz said.

The Jan. 12 forum was planned to coincide with the Outagamie County Board meeting the next day, when supervisors

Donations Sought by VFW For Girl Burned in Accident

CLINTONVILLE — The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 664 here is promoting a "Sue Kautz Trust Fund" to help pay medical costs for the 19-year-old Clintonville girl who was injured in a car accident, Oct. 4.

Sue, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oward Kautz, route 3, was severely burned in a New London accident. Judy Kersten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlin Kersten, 250 Modoc St., Clintonville, a passenger in the car, managed to crawl out the rear window, but Sue was unable to escape from the burning auto until she received assistance from a minister, the Rev. Jay Humphreys, Schofield, and "Bucky" Besaw, owner of a nearby drive-in restaurant.

Sue was taken to New London Community Hospital and then immediately transferred to Theda Clark Hospital, Neenah, where she has remained for extensive treatment. Miss Kersten was also injured and was confined at the New London hospital for seven weeks.

Since Sue received third and fourth degree burns to about 50 per cent of her body, numerous operations and skin grafts will be necessary. Some operations have already been performed and more are to take place.

The VFW is asking everyone to participate in defraying the expenses of Sue's treatment.

Donations can be mailed to Dairymen's State Bank, Clintonville National Bank, VFW Post 664 care of Lloyd Bussian, commander, or John E. Hogan, quartermaster. All addresses are Clintonville, Wis., 54929.

Slush Ice Packing the Waupaca River resulted in some interesting scenery Tuesday, but it also caused water to run over the stream's banks. Workmen made temporary dikes in front of storage basements and garages at the "back door" of Main Street, but the dikes washed out almost as fast as they were constructed. (Post-Crescent Photo)

An Evening to be Still

Perhaps the major message of Christmas, to Christian and non-Christian alike, is the tremendous positive power of love and hope.

There are other traits taught by the story of the baby born in Bethlehem who grew up to change the course of history. There are self-sacrifice, humility, joy, compassion, courage and the awareness of something beyond the mortal human. But they stem from love and hope, the love of God and the individual, hope in spite of discouragement, even in spite of disaster. In this season of 1969, we need them just as much as did the persecuted and poor two thousand years ago.

After the bustle of the pre-holiday rush and the penance of Advent, Christmas Eve must be something special in that "We may be still and know that thou art God." It is a time for reflection, for those close to us and near us, for abiding hope for all the tomorrows.

Ethics and the Landscape

It was a melancholy coincidence, but one that probably did not surprise the observant body politic of Wisconsin, that on the same day that the legislature's joint finance committee tabled and undoubtedly killed a roadside billboard control bill, the state division of highways was reporting on its heavy losses to the puerile vandalism shown in the willful destruction of highway traffic markers.

The roadside beautification bill, as it was accurately described by its supporters, had been kept in cold storage in the legislature for many months. It had wide and representative citizen support. But an unimaginative and indifferent majority of the key committee in the legislature, nevertheless, turned thumbs down on a practical, necessary and already tragically delayed measure to protect the native landscape.

Members of the committee grumbled about the cost the bill, if enacted, would entail, in the way of compensation to be paid to the billboard owners if their unattractive structures are required to be removed. This state spends up to a million dollars a mile for the construction of some key highway routes, dozens of millions each year for maintenance, many other millions for patrolling, but these stubborn men complain about the minor costs of removing what somebody has rightly called "landscape pollution."

Of course, it will take some money. It might even drain enough of the highway department's budget to require a small cut-back in construction for a few years. Wisconsin cannot expropriate the property of its private and corporate citizens. Indemnities for forced removal of the garish billboards are the price we must pay — in a state which has prided itself on its appreciation of natural resource values. Moreover, the state could collect some share of its signboard removal costs in aids available from the national government, which has shown a far more enlightened attitude on this problem than has the state government of supposedly progressive Wisconsin.

The highway division says that more than 5,500 of its highway traffic markers last year were known to have been destroyed or defaced by vandals, and hints broadly that such malefactors were also responsible for the destruction of many of an additional 5,000 of the lost markers that were put in the "unknown" column.

We will never cease to be curious about what goes through the mind, if any, of the person who would deliberately destroy public property. The same category of witless and irresponsible persons are frequently responsible for community resistance to the establishment of hunting and fishing areas, or parks, or picnic grounds, because of the shameful degree of debris, clutter and worse that so often is generated by the users of such public facilities.

Bethlehem and Dallas, Texas

"No Vacancy" is the way the electric sign would have read if the Bethlehem inn which turned away Joseph and Mary on that first Christmas had been up to 20th Century standards. It was fitting with the humble birthplace of Jesus Christ that He ministered to the poor and rejected persons of His time, and that the first persons to learn of His birth were shepherds, floating around the lowest rung of the social ladder.

A group of the followers of that Babe born in Bethlehem have been remembering the problems surrounding the first Christmas and doing something about a similar situation at Love Field in Dallas, Texas. The 20,000 servicemen expected to pass through the place during the holidays fly on a special military half-fare rate, using seats available. Some of their layovers include the prospect of spending the night in a lounge chair, sitting bored and lonely in the terminal.

As an alternative to that, a shuttle bus and two station wagons have been making the trip several times an hour from the field to North Temple Baptist Church, where the servicemen are fed, entertained and given a place to sleep. The effort is a community one. Local car dealers loaned the station wagons. Food and the use of games and colored television sets were donated by local merchants or church members. About 15 teen-agers and adults from the church serve sandwiches and talk with the servicemen.

Christmas will be different for those servicemen who take advantage of the church's hospitality. It not only will include food and a place to pass the time and sleep. It also means a chance, as one GI put it, to make friends.

Those who are away from home on this Christmas may find it hard to sing joyfully of the birth of a Savior when they are separated from their loved ones. Some persons in Dallas are remembering that the Holy Family spent its first Christmas away from home in temporary housing. But they are looking beyond that to what Christmas means to the followers of the Babe, and the ways of serving Him who said, "I have come that they might have life."

Holiday Activities in Appleton

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 25, 1869.

The chicken shoot organized by Mr. Soper will be postponed to New Year's Day on the Fair Grounds, due to the heavy snowstorm.

There is to be a Christmas tree at the German School House Sunday next for the benefit of the children. Other interesting exercises will take place.

The Phoenix and Philaethean Societies are each to have a supper on New Year's night. The former will be at the Lake House and the latter at the Waverly.

The members of these Societies are exerting themselves to the utmost to make theirs the most attractive and enjoyable, and ladies to attend have been in great demand, the gens of each Society striving to dispossess the other in their rivalry.

The end is not yet. we imagine. Sleigh-rides also are said to be on the program.

The Turners will have a ball on New Year's Eve and at the stroke of 12 o'clock there will be speaking and tableaux. There will be refreshments of all kinds.

There is to be a dance at Young's Corners — Christmas or New Year's — we have forgotten which.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 20, 1944.

"High School on the Air" featured Christmas songs that evening over Radio WHBY. A. A. Glockzin, director of vocal music in the Appleton Public Schools, directed the combined Appleton High School Chorus and the A.D.O.U. Club of 12 girls.

A special Christmas edition of The Talisman, weekly newspaper at Appleton High School, was published that week and distributed to students in their home rooms. The 8-page paper centered on Christmas in Appleton, especially as the holiday affects high school people.

Janice Garvey was the author of a Christmas story called "Santa Wears a Headset." It told about a telephone operator who played Santa to a little girl whom she knew only as a voice over the telephone wires.

Jean Gallaher was Talisman editor and her associates were Dorothy Farnum and Shirley Griesbach.

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 23, 1959.

The Fox Cities looked like an overblown Christmas card that day after a snowfall of 5 inches through the night and a continuing storm during the day. It was to be a white Christmas without a doubt, with four to six inches more snow predicted to fall before Christmas morning.

The Christmas rush was so great at the Appleton post office that the wives of employees went to work sorting mail. Among the workers were Mrs. William Sommer, Mrs. Harold Mollen, Mrs. Joseph Murphy, Mrs. Donald Van Ooyen and Mrs. Clyde Hansen.

Taylor Writes

Man Should be Brother to Man That Is Message of Christmas

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

As Christmas comes into the corners of our hearts like a gay shaft of sunshine and brings its song of faith and hope, how warmly, how surely, it rekindles the natural urge we all have to help one another — an urge sometimes buried but never lost.

Emerson said: "Write it in your heart that every day is the best day of the year." This is not easy to do as we ponder the Vietnam war and the other tragic fissures that wrench our nation. But Christmas is light and children's laughter, love and tenderness and trusting hearts, sympathy and good impulses. Certainly, it is our greatest human moment, offering its simple, clear proof that most men and women everywhere do wish each other well if given the chance.

We are the children our Savior never had. We join each other in the brotherhood of that conception. Selflessness is the true rock of this day. And when we say, "Merry Christmas, Happy Christmas," you and I and all of us are born again in the spirit of these exalted words and of our great Lord. For the amazing idea that man should be brother to man... that was the blazing star which dawned that first midnight.

beautiful star lighting the long, hard, hopeful way to the better world we hope and pray for.

'In God We Trust'

A nation's true home is its inner spirit. A country is the sum of its people. There is an old proverb: "Dear Lord, make this a better place, and please begin with me." Our country will be precisely what we are — no more, no less. And the highest principle to which we subscribe is: "In God We Trust."

This is under attack, but it must not be weakened.

A parallel: an artist can take a $1 piece of canvas, paint on it, put his spirit into it, and make it a blessing to humanity. That is salvation. And thus it is also with a nation.

Man, you and I know, is made of dust — plus divine intelligence and skill. We also know that the physical material of our minds and bodies disappears in a cycle of change every seven or eight years. Of the small creature born, and named our name, there is nothing left when we are eight years old. At 16 the mind and body have vanished twice and been renewed twice. At 60 we have developed and cast aside at least seven separate bodies.

But in the deepest part of our nature dwells that mysterious, feeble spark which we call the human soul.

It is always there. It stays. To think of this fact alone is to think of a miracle. To see it revealed within our people is to see us in our most elevated state.

There is much we can do to make this land richer and better for all people. And we live in an electrifying moment to do it. Scholars estimate that the world's knowledge doubled from the time of Jesus to about 1750, when there was a startling expansion of knowledge; then doubled again in only the next 150 years; then doubled again in the next 50, and so on. A geometric progression of knowledge is telescoping time. We are a leading contributor to the advancement. But in this the most destructive obstacle we face is spiritual poverty.

Cannot Live on Bread

The Holy Lord on the Cross said: "I thirst." So must we — for spiritual improvement.

We not only cannot "live on bread alone," we cannot even be truly progressive unless we have within ourselves a green pasture on which our souls can feed.

Many of the most dangerous problems — in our cities, in politics, in education and most certainly in our definitions of welfare — arise from the false assumption that the material environment outside the American people has the power to create happiness. Nothing outside can do this if no spiritual reservoir is constructed and sustained inside.

As our hopes reach out on Christmas to all points of the earth — and beyond, into space — we need His teachings. He who founded all progressive thought, beyond any other conceivable need in our great and troubled country.

A Merry, Merry Christmas, one and all!

... AND IF THE PRESIDENT SIGNS THE MINING BILL, I HOPE YOU'LL REMEMBER WITH GRATITUDE ALL I'VE DONE FOR YOU!

Wisconsin Report

Will Carley Throw Support to Lucey In Nomination Bid?

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Notes from the cuff of a capital press gallery occupant:

The current edition of the State Bar of Wisconsin leads off with a stinging criticism by President John C. Wickhem of Janesville of what he alleges is discriminatory treatment of professional practitioners by the Internal Revenue Services in levying income taxes. The federal tax administration is practicing "selective confiscation" in its treatment of professional men, as against self-employed non-professionals such as merchants, salesmen and others, because the latter are permitted to incorporate themselves and thereupon create both profit sharing and pension plans under the internal revenue code with generous tax savings resulting.

The numerous leg fractures suffered in an auto accident a month ago by James Wimmer, chairman of the Democratic party, are evidently more serious than earlier reported. Friends report that he has been advised by his physician that it may require six months to determine if the fractures will heal satisfactorily.

The state government's office space managers continue to move state agencies around the capital. This results in confusion for visitors desiring to do business with them, and sometimes also brings frustration to regularly assigned statehouse reporters who find it difficult to remember the numerous moves of the important departments.

Some of the Wisconsin men who were brought into the Pentagon as aides to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird are telling their home state friends that they have never worked harder in their lives or for longer days than they have since they were brought into the Defense Department.

Brisk Bruce Bishop, who rose fast when he was in the enforcement division of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, then became state director of civil defense, is now one of the most effective men on the staff of Gov. Knowles. Among his other tasks, he acts as secretary to the governor's several cabinets, preparing the agenda for the meetings, following through on decisions made, and in general performing as the governor's liaison officer with the principal operating departments of the state administration.

The legislative enactment of an anatomical gift act, the first of its kind in the state, has had strangely little notice in spite of the enormous public interest and publicity about advances in medicine and surgery as illustrated by human organ transplants.

The new law provides that any individual of sound mind and 18 years of age or more may give all or any part of his body for tissue and anatomical procedures, the gift to take effect upon the death of the donor.

The new state constitutional provision on full faith and credit bonding sets a gross limit for such borrowing and a maximum for any single biennium. Based on the late property valuation figures for the state, the two year total of bond issues would be limited to about $461 million. Although there are numerous and large issues now being considered, the aggregate debt if all are approved would be only about half of the maximum permitted.

The idea that any politician can "throw" any significant electoral support to one candidate or another has always been a dubious one in Wisconsin. Yet the question arises whether David Carley, who has decided not to run, will express a preference for any other candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. The question cannot now be answered positively, but it may be a hint that Carley has had several friendly chats lately with Pat Lucey, an announced candidate, toward whom Carley had not been noticeably friendly in earlier times.

We Think Christmas, But Do We Act It?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Everyone says that what is wrong with Christmas is that it's "too commercial" — but that is not the trouble. What is wrong with Christmas is that it is "too spiritual" — in the wrong way.

The commercial aspect of Christmas can easily be mass of Christ — must mean, if it is to mean anything. If it does not mean this to us, then what we worship is superstition and idolatry.

You cannot love God without loving (which is not to say liking) every fellow creature He made; and an act of contempt or rejection or injustice or neglect toward the least — the lowest, the poorest, the weakest, the dumbest — is an act against Him.

If Christianity does not mean this, it means nothing. If this central fact is ignored or slurred or rationalized away, the whole structure of Christianity falls apart, and we are left with nothing but another primitive "magic" religion.

And it is not the impious, the pagans and unbelievers, who must be most on guard against forgetting this message. It is the believers, the "spiritual" people, who are prone to mistake form for substance, prayers for performance, worship for practice.

For Christianity is not a "spiritual" religion, like some creeds of the East. It is an intensely "practical" religion, having its moral roots in the practicality of Judaism. It was not designed to change the way men think or believe as much as to change the way they act.

It is easy to think Christmas, and easy to believe Christmas; but it is hard — sometimes intolerably hard — to act Christmas. It is not our false commercialism that prevents it, but our false spirituality. Not the clang of the cash register, but the jingle of bells, calling us to sentimentality, and seducing us from the year-round ministry of brotherhood.

ignored or repudiated by anyone who wants to take this holiday seriously. But the false "spiritual" aspect is harder to separate from the true message.

The three wise men, and the star of Bethlehem, and the babe in the manger, and the mystery and the miracle — all these make it tempting and easy for us to forget what the whole story is about.

And the whole story — the whole message of the whole messiahship — can be summed up in two sentences from Jesus' own lips:

"If anyone says 'I love God' and hates his brother, he is a liar." (1 John 4:20)

"Inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these, my brethren, you did it unto me." (Matthew 25:40)

This is what Christmas—the
